THE MORMONS ARE GOING.

It speaks well for the power of the screw put upon the peculiar institutions of the saints in Utah that they now seem really anxious to get from under. The weight of the law has not crushed the church but it has made it squirm. The heads of the church are looking over the possible openings for immigration outside the boundaries of the United States and are likely to take the best that is offered, in the conviction that their ark must be carted away in order to preserve it. They realize that the nation is in earnest in its determination to enforce the law throughout Utah and no longer to suffer any organization on any pretext to set itself above the law and make its ordinances alone respected.

That is what the Mormon church has sought to do in Utah and its maintenance is an insult to the nation and a blot on the republic. If it is a matter of consequence with the latter day saints to commit adultery and hold no law binding which does not proceed from the church, they must find some other place than the United States to set up their ebriety. So they have concluded, and have lately been negotiating, as is reported, with the Mexican government for the purchase of a large tract of land in Lower California. There is some stumbling block in these negotiations but other arrangements will be attempted if this purchase falls through. The artist Sprague, who in the course of his recent work for Harper's Magazine has taken pains to learn the prevalent feeling in the church, reports the determination of the Mormons to "go somewhere out of Utah, and that soon, for their very existence depends upon at least a quasi state of independence for them. Only that the Argentine Republic is so far away they would go there, for, as I have been informed, they have been offered a guarantee from the government of that country of freedom from pressure of any kind—something, in fact, like the privilege of statehood—if they promise to settle there in numbers of from 10,000 to 20,000."

They are now, as Mr. Sprague says, in a minority in Utah, and intermarriage with the Gentiles is honeycombing Mormonism and the leaders know it. To keep the shell from being crushed there is only one resource, and that is to move it. Hence Mr. Sprague looks for the exodus of most of the loyal saints soon to some more hospitable country where they can practice what they preach without interference. This nation can well spare them, and the sooner they move on the better.

Six hundred and fifty-nine cars of wheat on the tracks here this morning. This is high wheat mark for the season thus far, but the top notch for the year, is not touched yet. In spite of the bombs bursting in air on the other side of the bay, it will be observed that the flag is still here.

The extraordinary attempts to block the wheels of justice in the Cronin case are now attracting the attention of the whole country and Chicago is called upon for corresponding efforts to foil them. The indictments for bribery found by the grand jury are alarming evidence of an unscrupulous conspiracy to debauch the jury and make it a party to the success of a mockery. For the honor of the city and the credit of the jury system no guilty man should be suffered to escape and the Cronin case should be celebrated as a triumph of the law and not as an infamous fizzle.

Mayor Grant is pushing the crusade against the unsightly and deadly wires begun by Mayor Hewitt. He is putting screws on all the electric light and power companies to compel them to bury their wires. All the experts in the employ of the companies certify that the existing system of overhead wires is all right, but their combined certificates fail to satisfy the mayor in face of his experience that "we get news of all who touch the wires through the coroner's office." The mayor's charge is a needless overstatement, but it is a satisfaction to New York to have a mayor who errs on the side of safety to the city. The result of his determined stand is to make the construction of subways the problem of the day in New York, and the solution of it will benefit every city in the country.

Lovell, Naby, Ardenus Ward and Josh Billings proved to America the power and wisdom of humor, and their work is being continued to some extent by Burdette and Nye. There is now no great crisis to develop the powers of these men, but their strong common sense is made manifest on many occasions. Bill Nye writes a letter regarding the coming world's fair, to a supposititious correspondent, Usual Dennis, which has more sense in it than can be extracted from the whole mass of stuff which has been printed by the New York and Chicago papers combined, during the whole time they have been wrangling over the location of the fair, and uselessly wrangling, since they will probably neither get the fair. Says Bill Nye:

At the time of this writing it seems to be a scuffle, Usual, between the Lovellards and the Leathards. Whether fine cut tobacco or mess pork gets it, we will try to be there, Mr. Dennis, with our child, and let us hope that it will not be composed entirely of drug store advertising and soap statuary. Do you not think, Usual, that as a union we are covering up what beauty we have with bright red paint and big black marks? I hope the Lovellards, wherever it is held, will give the artist and true genius as much of a show as it does the cheap man with a dozen swamps lots for sale, or the quack doctor with the tincture of a blue-jay and the advertising instincts of a polecat. We have money enough to fully equal or eclipse former fairs, but money will not do it. We must use some taste and discrimination. This is not a torchlight procession. It is a world's exhibit don where the heathen is liable to drop in and scoop us. What I have is to be beaten by a snout. That's where the heathen had the bulge on us in Paris. He did things that we could not do and he called attention to it and kept the crowds about him while we had nothing to show but the usual country fair program run in the same style. It is my patriotic prayer that America may never again be humiliated before the nations of the earth as she was in Paris this year.

SOME RECENT BOOKS.

The book season is upon us. It will not be long ere the great mass of unnecessary and unprofitable material in fine covers known as holiday books will be spread upon the counters of the bookstores. The advance notice of preparation are becoming more and more numerous. In the meantime the press is busily turning out its usual gists, some fit to canonize and some unfit to give attention to. From Boston, out of the book-making house which produces the most satisfactory constructed books in America—Houghton, Mifflin & Co.—we have "Two Coronets" by Mary Agnes Tucker, who several years ago published anonymously "Signor Mondini's Nine," and later "By the Tiber," and who has done better work in this than in either of her previous books and better work than is done in the great majority of novels that attain to the dignity of print and binding. It is a story which curiously, and rather meaningfully until the sequel shows, chooses the widely different fields of Italy and the extreme "down-east" New England for its scenes of action, and the almost grotesquely differing types of people of those two bits of earth for its characters. Miss Tucker indulges freely in the fascinating game of playing with the human passions, but yields at last to the benign influence of the better impulses of humanity, as Mr. P. Marlon Crawford has in his later novels so well exemplified can be successfully done by novels. To know one of Miss Tucker's characters—Mary—is abundant compensation for reading her book, or a hundred books. Mary is a New England girl, with a strong strain of noble English blood in her veins. When Dr. Martin first met her, "teaching school," she was "the staidest and most demurest of girls, with a sprig of color in the splendid coils of her auburn hair, a pair of lustrous gray eyes, and a neck as white as swan's down." She was a very intelligent young woman. She had a wonderful voice, and she had her own peculiar way of singing. When she sang from her heart, like to set up their ebriety. So they have concluded, and have lately been negotiating, as is reported, with the Mexican government for the purchase of a large tract of land in Lower California. There is some stumbling block in these negotiations but other arrangements will be attempted if this purchase falls through. The artist Sprague, who in the course of his recent work for Harper's Magazine has taken pains to learn the prevalent feeling in the church, reports the determination of the Mormons to "go somewhere out of Utah, and that soon, for their very existence depends upon at least a quasi state of independence for them. Only that the Argentine Republic is so far away they would go there, for, as I have been informed, they have been offered a guarantee from the government of that country of freedom from pressure of any kind—something, in fact, like the privilege of statehood—if they promise to settle there in numbers of from 10,000 to 20,000."

After a little time Mary returned to the group she had left, but before she came the director's heart had given itself up to her keeping forever. "Every nerve of him was resolute to have this soft, white, ivory creature for his own," Mary thought. "Precious stones are for this book, but that is not made to serve. There are other characters entirely worthy of attention. Mary is herself really but an incident, though a very sweet and satisfying one. Her marriage really inaugurates the story, and her beautiful daughter becomes the heroine. Miss Tucker makes use of the original and strikingly adequate expressions. She is writing of the jewels of a noble Italian family, and remarks: 'Precious stones are the sanctity of matter.' A descriptive phrase worthy to live. The book is full of things good to know and remember. It ought to be a very honorable place among the novels of the season."

"Literary Landmarks" by Mary E. Burt, teacher of literature in the Cook County Normal school at Englewood, Ill., is, as its subtitle declares, and as the discriminating critic must gladly agree, "A guide to good reading for young people, and teachers' assistants." Miss Burt says she has written the book about books because she knows so little about books, "because I have spent many years and hundreds of dollars to get a general knowledge of books." She now makes it possible for others to utilize what she too modestly calls her small knowledge of books at a very small expenditure of either time or money. It is almost a text book, but escapes it by a margin sufficiently wide to make it of great use to all, and especially valuable to such as have the direction of the literary taste of children. [Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.]

Between the covers of the volume which Architect Louis H. Gibson names "Convenient Homes" there is a great amount of the sort of information that is of the greatest value to persons contemplating building for themselves a home. It deals with houses in a housekeeping spirit, dealing always in mind, convenience, ease, stability and beauty of surroundings. In a city where houses are being built by the thousand every season, as they are in Duluth, such a book as this ought to have a wide circulation. It is not a technical treatise on mere house-building. It treats of the relation of architecture to good and economical housekeeping; takes the reader through the house, considering each room in detail; then gives plans of fifty convenient houses—mostly houses that have been built—and describes them fully; and then comes a section dealing with such practical matters as specifications, contracts, material, etc., devoid of technicalities so far as it was possible to eliminate them; and the closing section is devoted to the getting of a home—an explanation of the operation of building associations, and the various installment plans which have of late come into such high favor. We have taken pains to examine this book with great care and thoroughness, and with such knowledge as a certain familiarity with the topics it treats upon gives, and do not feel that justice would be done to The Herald readers did we not strongly counsel such of them as contemplate building to procure this treatise with it. It will surely prove itself to be a guide, counsellor and friend. [New York: Thomas Y. Crowell & Co.]

The first four volumes of the new library edition of The Reader which Houghton, Mifflin & Co. are bringing out has been issued. The beautiful work of The Riverside Press was never so more beautifully displayed than in these books. They are perfectly adapted to the purpose of an owner who loves his author. They are large enough to be conveniently handled. The type is delightfully clear and of size calculated to make the possessors of falling sight continually grateful to the publisher. A fine portrait of Thackeray is printed to the first of the twenty-two volumes, and all the original illustrations will be used in the edition. Introductory notes, partly anecdotal, and full of interest, set forth the history of the several works. Novelists come and go, and a book which sells by the thousand this year will next year be merely good for the paper mill. But for Thackeray there is no changing fashion; the living years may alter conditions and customs but not human nature, and in the interpretation of human nature this master of modern novelists takes rank with the few great writers of all time—writers who are now beyond the reach of carping criticism.

Literary Notes.
The October number (No. 43) of the Riverside Literature Series (published quarterly during the school year 1898-99 at 15 cents a number, by Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston) contains the "Story of Clytemnestra Among the Physicians," from William Gullon Bryant's Translation of Homer's Odyssey.

Edward Atkinson has contributed an article on "The Art of Cooking," which will open the November "Popular Science Monthly." In it he points out what enormous quantities of food and fuel are wasted in ordinary cooking, and describes the "cooker" and "oven" invented by him, which need but a wonderfully small quantity of oil or gas, and can not spoil the food.

Important at this time of great interest in things Pan-American, are two articles in Harper's Magazine for November: one by Thomas A. Janvier, describing "The Mexican Army," and pointing out what its excellent organization signifies for the future of Mexico; the other by the former Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the Republic of Colombia to the United States, Hon. Ricardo Baez, on "The Republic of Colombia," giving a trustworthy account of the resources and the present social and political state of Colombia.

An especially illustrated article on "Sensitive Flames and 'Sound-Shadows,'" by Prof. W. Le Conte Stevens, will appear in the November Popular Science Monthly. It contains some very curious instances in which sound has been found to behave like light.

Thomas A. Janvier believes in the Mexican constitutional republic, a working house. He will contribute to Harper's Magazine for November an article in which, with the assistance of fourteen illustrations drawn from life by Frederick Remington, he describes the Mexican army, and explains how President Diaz has created an orderly, well-disciplined, trustworthy military force, loyal to the nation and to the idea of national unity, out of a mass of scattered elements faithful only to their respective generals.

All are interested in the results, method, and experiments with an agent known as the "Ellixir of Life." It is remarkable, however, to notice the ignorance and misapprehension that exist regarding what this remedy really is, its method of application, and the results which have been attained. A little book, entitled "The Ellixir of Life," has been compiled to give the opinions of all classes and all facts of interest connected with the subject. It contains "Dr. Brown-Sequard's own account of his famous alleged remedy for debility and old age, Dr. Varot's experiments, and contemporaneous comments of the profession and the press, with a portrait of the author, and a life and portrait," and is published by J. G. Cupples company, Boston.

AUTUMN GLORIES.
[A. J. Schaefer in America.]
The autumn's gorgeous golden cup,
With a warm impalpable rim;
The sun's last gleam, the moon's last smile,
With rays of wine and trembling leaves,
And turns them yellow and red.
The field is russet and purple,
The wood is scarlet and gold;
A river of flaming color
Flashes warm the dreary world.
And when with the dancing sunbeams
The landscape is all aglow,
It seems that some lovely spirit
Together in harmony flows.
October in brilliant dress is here,
And southward the birds are singing;
Old Nature in her lush green
Carries a rose of fire.
And rustling murmur of gold
Autumn would limit itself to sing;
And, king-like, wrapped in its splendid fold
In his own life the spring.

Little Lumps of Wisdom

AND SOME MILD RE-FLECTIONS CONCERNING
INDUSTRY, ECONOMY
AND THRIFT.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise."
—Proverbs.

Did you ever think, dear reader, what a big, bustling world we live in. How every man seems to be bound, by the very law of his being, to work and toil and struggle to keep his head above water. We all know this by experience, and while it seems hard, yet as it is the common fate of mankind we are bound to do our level best and leave the results to God. But we, after all, are the architects of our own fortune. Some people fail in life because they are too lazy to work. Such people should learn a lesson from the industrious ant.

But there are millions of industrious people who work hard and long, people of good habits and the best of citizens, and yet they fail utterly to accumulate anything for a rainy day. And why is it? Please listen and we will tell you: The secret of acquiring wealth is to put money where it will make money—in other words, where it will grow. The rich men of this country never got their wealth by day labor. More than 80 per cent of them commenced life in that way, but by saving up their earnings and putting them into judicious investments their wealth grew and increased, like the farmer's crops, while they slept. Kind reader, you can become a landowner and capitalist if you only will. No such opportunities have ever been placed before any people as we present to you. We have what will soon become very popular and high-priced suburban property, which we are selling at ground-floor prices and on terms so easy that anyone who has any desire to acquire property can buy one or more lots, pay a very small sum down and make the deferred payments without feeling it. If you want to embrace this great opportunity call and get a plat of Crosley Park and learn all about it. If you fail to do this, please reflect in after years that in the year of our Lord 1899 you had the ladder of fortune placed at your very feet and that you deliberately refused to climb. Think of these things, and come in at once and talk the matter over with us.

But we, after all, are the architects of our own fortune. Some people fail in life because they are too lazy to work. Such people should learn a lesson from the industrious ant.

But there are millions of industrious people who work hard and long, people of good habits and the best of citizens, and yet they fail utterly to accumulate anything for a rainy day. And why is it? Please listen and we will tell you: The secret of acquiring wealth is to put money where it will make money—in other words, where it will grow. The rich men of this country never got their wealth by day labor. More than 80 per cent of them commenced life in that way, but by saving up their earnings and putting them into judicious investments their wealth grew and increased, like the farmer's crops, while they slept. Kind reader, you can become a landowner and capitalist if you only will. No such opportunities have ever been placed before any people as we present to you. We have what will soon become very popular and high-priced suburban property, which we are selling at ground-floor prices and on terms so easy that anyone who has any desire to acquire property can buy one or more lots, pay a very small sum down and make the deferred payments without feeling it. If you want to embrace this great opportunity call and get a plat of Crosley Park and learn all about it. If you fail to do this, please reflect in after years that in the year of our Lord 1899 you had the ladder of fortune placed at your very feet and that you deliberately refused to climb. Think of these things, and come in at once and talk the matter over with us.

Did you ever think, dear reader, what a big, bustling world we live in. How every man seems to be bound, by the very law of his being, to work and toil and struggle to keep his head above water. WITH THE RAILROADS.

Freight Officials of the Pennsylvania Road Visit Duluth.

New Stations on the South Shore Road--Rail Notes.

General Manager E. L. Dudley, of the St. Paul and Duluth, came up from St. Paul last night, bringing with him James Smith, attorney of the road, General Freight and Passenger Agent, Plough and the following Eastern railway officials: William H. Joyce, general agent of the Pennsylvania system and general freight agent of the Northern Central, the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore, the Baltimore and Potomac, and the West Jersey railroads; D. S. Gray, general agent Pennsylvania company; D. T. McCabe, assistant general freight agent of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis, and the Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh company; William Borne, general Western freight agent of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago; E. T. Evans, general manager of the Lake Superior Transit company; William H. Burr, Phenixville, Pa.; H. Simmons, St. Paul; W. B. Wensley of Menomonie. The party has been making a tour over the Pennsylvania's Western connections, and under the guidance of Mr. Evans will look over Duluth's terminal system. The visit of these gentlemen to this city revives many rumors regarding the future plans for building larger and more modern ships by the Transit company.

When asked by a Herald reporter what the Pennsylvania party was doing at Duluth a member of the party answered in the usual stereotyped way, "Oh, only a pleasure visit," but this statement in view of certain reports that come from the East and St. Paul, must be swallowed with a grain of salt. It is very probable that the Pennsylvania men are in the Northwest for the purpose of making closer traffic arrangements with the St. Paul and Duluth road and the Lake Superior and West-bound freight. The Pennsylvania system has looked to Duluth as the point from and to which its freight must come and go.

The lake traffic arrangement with the Lake Superior Transit company has not been entirely satisfactory, as the Transit company is a pool for several roads and is composed of vessels belonging to their roads. It was stated on good authority as published some time ago in The Herald—that the Pennsylvania road had acquired a controlling interest in the Transit company, and that a new line of steel boats would be built and probably in this connection is the visit of the Pennsylvania officers, all of whom are connected with the freight departments of the system.

This morning was spent by the officials looking over the St. Paul and Duluth terminals, the docks and elevators. The party returns East tonight.

Stations on the South Shore.
The following stations on the Duluth division of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railway have been opened and agents appointed for the transportation of freight and passenger traffic: Kitchi, Mich.; Trout Creek, Mich.; O'Brien, Mich.; Edwin, Mich.; Saxon, Wis.; Marquette, Wis.; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Wis. The latter point is only fifteen miles from Duluth. At Saxon connection is made with the Milwaukee, Lake Shore and Western; at Marquette with the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha. Rock, River, Mich., formerly a ticket agency, has been changed to a freight and passenger station and an agent appointed.

Rail Notes.
George M. Kenyon, general agent of the Canadian Pacific road, is in the city today. The Canadian people are looking forward to the time when the Duluth and Winnipeg road will form the connecting link between Manitoba and the head of the lakes.

G. T. Copeland, general superintendent of the St. Paul and Duluth road, is on one of his frequent visits to Duluth.

HOW AXTELL WON.

Williams nodded for the word at the second attempt and the unequalled flight was begun. With that smooth action that marks him as the purest-gaited horse that ever lived, the first quarter was reached in 32. The minutes made faster to the half in 1:05 1/2. "Too fast," said Col. Conley, and a sigh went up from the crowd as it felt that the drive was made too soon.

Still the game colt went on, his gait getting faster and faster. Thirty-two and a quarter was his time for the three-quarter post. With never a falter he breasted the hill and turned into the stretch. A monster shout went up: "He will do it." On he came, and without a wobble or false stroke he finished the mile stroke in 2:12. Thus at one stroke he reduced the three-year-old record one and three-quarters seconds, also the record for stallions at all ages.

Pandemonium broke loose. The stretch was black with a shouting, yelling mob. Williams was taken from the sulky and borne aloft on shoulders and cheer after cheer went up for the gallant colt and driver. The official timers were: J. H. Steiner, secretary of the American Trotting association, A. E. Bush of Detroit, and Col. Conley of Chicago. Their watches agreed exactly on all fractions of the mile. The watches of Judges Beauchamp and Moran told exactly the same tale. The track is seven feet over a mile by official survey.

Theatrical Notes.
Mrs. Kendall, the English actress, has taken New York by storm. New York critics say that "Seven Ages," Dixey's new play, will last as long as "Adonis."

Verdi is writing a new opera, the subject being drawn from the libretto of "Beatrice di Fedeo."

A recent season of Italian opera in London closed with a loss of $32,000, or at the rate of $250 a night.

Eighteen Wagner performances at Berlin recently brought in $123,000.

The health of Mrs. James G. Blaine, Jr., is such that it is probable she will never appear on the stage.

Mr. Sol Smith Russell, thus corrects several misstatements: "I was born in 1848, and consequently I am 41 years of age. My manager is not my son, for he is 41 also. Lillian Russell is my daughter, but my Lillian is 6 years old, and is not the renowned beauty of the Casino. I began acting twenty-six years ago."

Arthur Wallack, son of the late Lester Wallack, was married early in September at Lake Mahopac, to Jessie Church-hill, daughter of a merchant of New York city.

Rudolph Aronson was married on Sept. 9 to Miss Evelyn Chandler, of Schenectady, N. Y. The affair was kept quiet until a few days ago.

Rose Coghlan appears at Minneapolis the first half of this week and at St. Paul the latter half.

DULUTH AT PIERRE.

One of Our Real Estate Hunters Writes to The Herald.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Pierrefort, the temporary capital of South Dakota, is now the scene of a real estate excitement seldom, if ever, equalled in the West. During a stay of two weeks in this Missouri river town I have seen prices advance steadily and still going up at a rapid pace. It is impossible to come to any conclusion as to where the business portion will eventually be. The old town has a rival in East Pierre, which is situated on a handsome plateau, and rapidly building up. Seventy-five per cent of the business is done on the flats, near where the projected bridge is to cross the river. The city is full of people, and the hotels, boarding houses and every available building are overcrowded. The exaggerated reports sent to outside papers have had a decided tendency to keep investors and settlers away, and naturally to hurt the growth of the town for a while.

Pierrefort is the gateway to the great Sioux reservation to be opened to settlement next spring. The tract contains 11,000,000 acres and will be opened to homestead entry. This great transfer might be called a sale of states if it was not all in South Dakota, and only less than a fourth of the new state—the thirty-ninth star. When this important event is decided by the President's proclamation there will no doubt be thousands of people to settle on these lands, nearly all of which are desirable.

The real estate men are the king bees here, and they are doing considerably well in disposing of their goods to incoming capitalists. Prices have not advanced to an exorbitant degree yet, but the probabilities are that if the excitement and hubbub continues the top notch will be reached and some of the option buyers will be left with the money, unless they are able to hold their purchases until the growth of the city reaches the price. Duluth is fairly represented here by buyers and speculators, but they are after the money and are not here for love of the capital city. Edmund Sherwood, the county attorney has made some good turns and expects to double his money again before he leaves. Messrs. Lazier and Getty reached here last evening and are busy today picking up bargains. Dr. Hoyt, an old Duluthian owns several fine lots, but refuses to place any price on them. It is the general opinion that business will quiet down after the adjournment of the legislature, which convenes here next Tuesday to elect United States senators. Messrs. Pettigrew of Sioux Falls, and Judge Moody of Deadwood, are two leading candidates.

There is no denying the fact that Pierre is well enough located, and has the resources in view to become one of the principal cities in South Dakota. The farmers throughout this section are crying for railroad connections with Duluth and want to be happy till the ties are laid and cars running.

THE IRON MARKET.

Great Demand for All Kinds of Ore and Pig Iron.

The Iron Trade Review in its weekly resume of the situation says that it is thought Lake Superior charcoal iron must see $20 at Chicago very soon, and that a general advance on all grades of iron will occur this week. Some furnaces have orders so far ahead that they have withdrawn from the market and refuse to give quotations for any part of next year, while others have advanced quotations much above the market. There is not a furnace in the country that is in condition to produce iron, but is in blast, working day and night in a vain effort to keep pace with the enormous demand. It is next to impossible to quote correct prices from this fact that the great consumption of the pig material gives to the furnace men an opportunity to make his own price, differing in each case with the necessities of the consumer, and the pressure of his wants.

Anybody who has any kind of good ore for sale may dispose of it quickly at this time, and at an advance of from twenty-five cents to half a dollar over the prices that governed the market during the selling season. Strange as it may seem, the extraordinary large proportion of 80, although exceeding the price of 88 by 25 per cent, has failed to satisfy the demand, and the explanation is found in the anticipation, by furnace-men, of increased prices in 1890, so that the larger and wealthier concerns are, and for some time have been loading up with ore to dealers have been approached for quotations for '90 ore, but it has been deemed inadvisable to anticipate the reason at such an early day, and the market will be done in this direction until the close of navigation, when the mines will be in a condition to enable an approximate estimate to be made of next year's output. The season, thus far, has been very satisfactory in every sense, and the high prices have not been high they have yielded a fair profit.

TABERNACLE BURNED.

Brooklyn's Great Church Completely Destroyed by Fire.

New York, Oct. 14.—Yesterday morning the Brooklyn Tabernacle, of which Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D., is pastor, was discovered to be on fire, and was totally destroyed. The fire had gained such headway when the alarm was sent in that nothing could be done to save the building, and the firemen directed their efforts to adjoining buildings, a number of which were burned, though the loss is comparatively small. In an hour's time only the tottering walls of the Tabernacle remained. Dr. Talmage was on the scene soon after the first alarm, and did not leave until he had seen the edifice, which had been his pride, laid in ashes.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The sexton denies the rumor that fires had been lighted in the furnace. Edison's men were in the building until 5:30 Saturday afternoon, arranging the new electric plant, and it is thought that during the thunder shower which prevailed during Saturday night, lightning had been carried into the building by the wires they introduced, and which ran around the gallery about on a level with the place where the flames were first seen. The loss on the building, including the furniture, was $200,000, one of the finest in the country, is $150,000. It is said to be covered by insurance in a number of companies.

The building was of the fourteenth century gothic architecture, and was dedicated Feb. 22, 1874. It was a brick building with stone trimmings, with a frontage of 150 feet and a depth of 113 feet, to which had recently been added an extension of 12 feet wide and 12 feet deep. The seating capacity was 2500, and it was fully taxed at Sunday's services. The previous structure was burned in December, 1872.

Talmage has issued an appeal to the public for help in rebuilding the edifice immediately.

Car reports of the Eastern and Northern Pacific roads this morning showed a total of 630 cars, of which the Eastern brought in about two-thirds. This is the largest day's work of this year to date and has not been equaled since 1886. For the week past Duluth shows a slight loss in totals of wheat, there now being 1,233,320 bu in store, 22,222 less than a week ago. Corn is now 13,700, an increase of 800 bu; oats is now 178 bu. Of the wheat in store the Lake Superior and Union Improvement houses hold 624,000 bu, the Great Northern 331,000 bu and the Duluth company 278,000 bu. No. 1 northern opened at 78 1/2, declined to 78 1/4, ruled very dull, near the close it sold up to 78 1/2; year wheat at $3.45, May opened at 88 1/2, advanced to 89 1/2, closed at 89 1/2. The visible of wheat is increased 1,230,000 bu against an increase of 723,000 bu for the week last year, and 348,000 bu for the week in 1897. Corn shows an increase of 901,000 bu against 320,000 bu for the week last year. The visible of corn is 20,100,000 bu against 32,200,000 bu at the date last year and of 31,331,423 bu date in 1897.

Mr. Pillsbury and the Englishmen.
 Chicago, Oct. 14.—Mr. C. A. Pillsbury of Minneapolis, has been in the city, and was asked about the prospects of the sale of his flour mills to the English syndicate. "My flour mills are not sold nor am I negotiating for their transfer. This English syndicate craze has assumed wide proportions now. I believe half of the passengers from Europe cross the water for the purpose of getting an option on some good established business in this country. Of 100 overtures made by these agents but one trade is consummated. While I have been approached by many I can't say I've actually negotiated for the sale of my properties at any time. I learn more about the sale of my mills through the newspapers than in any other way. Notwithstanding all the talk I don't believe that one flouring mill in the Northwest has been sold to English investors."

Corrigan, the large vessel owner of Cleveland, Mr. Davis will develop one tract of sixty acres at once, while his son, Frank Davis, lately of Duluth, is now on the way there with his wife and will locate and open another claim. These properties which are located at Joplin are thought to be valuable and it is Mr. Davis's intention to find out how valuable they are.

MARINE MATTERS.

Officers of the Michigan--Week's Ore Shipments--Notes of Shipping.

The officers of the United States steamer Michigan are mostly to be changed at once. Commander Pickering will be relieved and reports to Washington to be examined for a captaincy. It is thought that Commander Gridley stands the best chance of succeeding him. Lieutenant Commander Merry is ordered to the frigate Valiant, now lying at Boston, as executive officer. Paymaster Galt will be relieved on the 31st inst. by J. S. Carpenter. He goes to Norfolk as assistant paymaster in the navy yard there. Ensign J. H. Shipley has been detached from the Walrus and is ordered to the Michigan. It is rumored that Lieutenant Pillsbury will be the relief of Lieutenant Commander Merry.

The week's shipments of iron were well up to the highest average for the season, the total being 212,881 tons, bringing the season to date up to 5,674,321 tons, a gain of 2,000,432 over last year. Of the quantity sent forward during the week 54,177 tons went from Marquette, 26,001 from Escanaba, 33,492 from Ashland, 24,873 from Two Harbors, 327 from St. Ignace, and 1951 from Gladstone.

Tomorrow is the date set by Mr. Reising for roping in Duluth harbor. It is not at all probable, now that Reising's bluff has failed, that he will make any attempt at a blockade.

Lake Merchandise Receipts.

The Canadian boat lines, in anticipation of the close of navigation, are rushing freight through to Manitoba in quantities exceeding what has yet been carried this season. The United Empire brought in 200 tons of merchandise Saturday, and this week the Celtic, Cuba, and Acadia are expected direct from Montreal, having on board 600 tons of valuable merchandise for Manitoba and the Northwest.

GREAT LABOR CONVENTION

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Begin an Important Meeting.

Illinois Knights of Pythias and
Wisconsin Woman's Rights
Conventions.

DEVER, Col., Oct. 15.—Over 500 delegates are in the city to attend the convention of the National Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which opens today. The gathering will be of an international character, Mexico and Canada as well as the United States being represented.

Chief Arthur will preside,
the proceedings being conducted with closed doors. Should the convention endorse the action of its representatives in federating with the firemen, switchmen, brakemen and Knights of Labor,
the biggest labor federation in the world
will have been brought into existence.
The secret agreement is as follows:

First. Upon the system of the Union Pacific railway there shall be organized a board of delegation to consist of three members from each organization represented.

Second. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Knights of Labor and the Switchmen's Mutual Aid association shall receive and consider the application of any other organization on the system to join the federation board; to be accepted as the majority shall see fit; and agree to these articles of federation to govern their relations with the management or the systems upon which we are employed.

Third. The members of the board of federation shall be representatives of the executive grain committee or boards of adjustment of their respective organizations.

Fourth. In case of the executive or grievance committee of either organization failing to effect a settlement satisfactory to them, they shall comply with the laws of their organization regarding grievances and strikes, and if their action in the matter receives the endorsement of their organization, the management shall be submitted to the federal board for final action.

Fifth. Should the federal board agree on the justice of the alleged grievance, it shall proceed to adjust the same.

The federal board shall not satisfactorily adjust the difficulty, shall notify the organization presenting the grievance of such failure, informing them that if they desire to go beyond these peaceful measures, they shall have the entire board, and, if necessary, financial support of all the organizations represented on the board.

Seven. Should the organization where the grievance originated consider the board's action unsatisfactory, a strike is necessary. The board shall have authority by a two-thirds vote, if in their judgment, they deem it desirable to do so, to order all other organizations of the system represented on the board to join in the strike to bring about a speedy settlement.

Eight. The organizations represented in this board shall mutually agree to do all in their power to build up and strengthen each other by the use of their respective organizations of the organization representing their trade or craft.

An expelled member of either organization shall be ineligible for membership in any of the other organizations unless he was expelled from the organization from which he was expelled.

Wisconsin Woman's Rights.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 15.—Prominent advocates of equal political rights for women from all parts of the state filled Association hall at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when the annual convention of the Wisconsin Woman's Rights association was called to order by Rev.
Olympia Brown of Racine. Devotional exercises were first conducted by Prof.
H. D. Maxon of Menominee, and the annual address was then delivered by President Brown. Susan B. Anthony occupied a seat upon the platform during the proceedings.

Illinois Knights of Pythias.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—The twentieth annual session of the grand lodge of the Knights of Pythias of Illinois opened today at the Pythian hall. The attendance is the largest in the history of the organization and the annual reports show a large increase of membership during the year, with a considerable falling off in the ratio of mortality. Supreme Chancellor General William Ward
New Jersey, St. Louis, presided. The George B. Shaw of Wisconsin, the members of the board of control of the Endowment rank, and many of dignitaries of the order are in attendance.

Chief Arthur Will be Re-elected.

DEVER, Oct. 15.—The opposition to the re-election of Chief Arthur appears to have petered out and his selection once more as the head of the great organization is assured.

To Succeed Laird.

HASTINGS, Neb., Oct. 15.—The republican congressional convention has nominated Secretary of State G. L. Laws to succeed the late Congressman Laird.

REPUBLICANS WIN.

Enough Democratic Votes Thrown Out
to Change the State.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 15.—The canvassers in Silver Bow county have thrown out the vote in what is known as the railroad precinct, which gave the democrats a majority of 174. If this action is upheld by the courts it will set the entire republican vote against from that county (eleven members), overcome the democratic majority in the legislature, and give the republicans control of that body.

The democratic managers will ask for a writ of mandamus to compel the canvassers to count the rejected precinct.
The throwing out of this precinct reduces Toole's vote for governor, but does not overcome his majority. The democratic state committee has issued a statement and protest in regard to the action of the Silver Bow canvassers.

A quarter past 12 last night a coil of 1/2-inch rope was placed in one of Ferryman Winters' boats and the end of the coil passed over a pile 118 feet east of the center of Lake avenue and the boat started across the canal and Ferryman Winters with Frank Jacobs and James Jones as assistants proceeded to haul it out and make it fast on the other side.

This was about accomplished when representatives to again make the rope fast, but the watchful officer interfered and they abandoned the attempt until this morning when the day and night force of police were changing. Then the men succeeded in getting the line across.

Five minutes later the propeller Winlow of the Transit line steamed into the canal and Winters shouted out:
"Look out for the rope, captain; don't break it!"

"To hell with your clothes-line," responded the captain, and the boat proceeded on its way.

By this time the canal was pretty well lined with onlookers, and the rope was again put in position. Later the little boat Spirit, with the great scores, started to go out of the canal and was brought up by the rope, which delayed her about ten minutes, when it was discovered that the rope had broken.

Shortly afterwards the Being representative brought a piece of iron chain about eighteen feet long and spiked it to the dock, allowing the end to drop into the water. This was done to prevent the line being cut from the docks,
and efforts were made to string the line, but without success. It is believed that no further attempt will be made to obstruct the passage until nightfall.

Doran went down about 9:30 and instructed Officer Smollett to arrest any one attempting to put a rope across the canal.

The rope remained in the water until about 9 o'clock, when it was pulled out on the Park Point wharf.

Herald reporter, and the onlookers made a wild scramble for pieces to preserve as relics of Being's audacious attempt to stop traffic.

M. H. Alworth is understood to be the author of the rope across the canal. He is said to have received a telegraphic dispatch from Detroit yesterday telling him
to "string the rope."

A number of transfers of property from Reginald W. Petre and Luther Mendenhall to W. Being appeared in yesterday's Herald, but the lot are not the ones which are the "cause belli" in this matter. They are, however, property which will be more or less affected by the final outcome of the matter.

In explanation of the apparent laxness and carelessness of the city authorities in permitting a rope to be strung across the canal, it is stated by the mayor that it was decided last night, on recommendation of the city attorney, that no steps should be taken to interfere with the action of Mr. Being, unless he attempted to actually bar navigation by a wire cable or stout chain. Then arrests were made.

Below the idea being to compel the bringing of suits rising out of the matter against the United States government. This explanation does not, however, appear to explain why the rope was first cut by a policeman in the employ of the city, or why the chief of police, who has later, went to the canal and gave orders to arrest any one stretching a rope across.

Boeing's Attempt to Tie Up
Duluth Harbor With a Half-Inch Rope.

Vessels Break the Obstruction
---What City Author-

William Boeing has made good his

A CITY IN DARKNESS.

A city in darkness. From Central Park to the battery all electric lights cut off. Police patrol doubled and every body wondering what next! That was New York last night. The war against the overhead wires has been pushed so sharply that it has now become a fight for existence. The overhead wire companies know it. Mayor Grant has resolved that those wires must go, and will have them all chopped down unless they are buried forthwith, if the chopping is not barred by injunctions. While they hold the air, they are a constant menace to life and swell the risk of fire to the imminent peril of the city.

How far the law will sustain him in his crusade remains to be seen, but from the standpoint of the public safety he is abundantly justified in the resort to extreme measures to clear away the wires. It is idle to pretend that the intricate network which now covers New York is an essential and harmless mesh. Every week shows them to be a death trap and strengthens the call for their burial.

Only last Friday another victim was added to the list of those sacrificed to the octopus which has taken hold of the city. A fireman of the Western Union was sent to repair some telegraph wires. On the pole which he climbed were strung nine electric light wires. After climbing up, he slipped and fell upon one of the cross arms with his head and hand touching the electric light wires. He was probably instantly killed and his throat, another across his chest and a third on top of his head. When his body was taken down, the coroner's examination showed that the right thumb of his hand had been almost burned off and the palm of the hand roasted to the bone. His left cheek from ear to mouth was burned to the jaw bone, and the wire which lay across his throat had burned its way back to the spine. It is this shocking sacrifice which has confirmed the mayor's resolve to put the deadly wires under ground without a day's needless delay.

The companies may succeed in getting a little respite, but the burial of the wires is now only a question of months, and perhaps of weeks. Unfortunately for the public, putting the wires underground does not put them out of danger. If this is less or hurriedly done, only a few days ago we have in the same city of New York by which the iron cover of a manhole was thrown twenty feet into the air. The only explanation offered is that a spark from a buried wire must have ignited gas leaking from the pipes. If New York had to choose between being burned in a net or blown up by a subterranean battery, it would have a choice of evils. It is not enough to bury the wires. The city must compel their thorough insulation by the best approved appliances. Accidents will still happen, but they can be made infrequent. It is a disgrace to modern science and humanity that the extension of the use of this wonderfully serviceable agent should be attended by such reckless and needless sacrifices of property and life.

An experiment in colonization is to be tried in Mexico. The Mexican congress has granted a concession to a proposed colony of negroes. If the colony prospers there is assurance of further grants. This method of disposing of the race question in the South will commend itself to Senator Hampton. But its success depends upon what the negroes here think of it.

Claimant Baking put his rope across the canal by proxy but it was soon snapped. Now it remains to be seen what the cost of snapping it is. The rope was so small that it was evidently a test line and not a harbor bar, and we may reasonably expect that no charge will be made for the damage done in removing it without first trying it. We trust that now law in the evidence will oblige the claimant to sacrifice another rope.

Legacies to the amount of $8000 left by Benjamin Franklin and John Scott to the city of Philadelphia, to be expended upon public improvements, have amounted by investment for nearly a century to $110,000. Of this, $100,000 will be devoted to the erection of a large public bath in Philadelphia, while the remaining $10,000 will be laid aside for another hundred years. Who will be the first to imitate Ben Franklin for the benefit of Duluth?

By the recent test of the guns of our new cruiser Vaucluse, it has been shown that they can throw nearly a ton of dynamite a minute over a mile. A few such floating volcanoes should be able to keep a harbor mouth clear if they do not explode before they come within striking distance. As these scientific horrors of war multiply, we believe the chances of keeping the peace will grow in proportion. For when war comes to be merely a test of murderous engines, it will be hard to get men to piece out the links in the machinery. There is no glory to speak of in forming part of a dynamite target.

It is reported that ex-Secretary Bayard is moving to regain his seat in the senate. A meeting of the leading democrats was held in Wilmington ostensibly to heal the breach between the Wilcox and Sainsbury factions, and this is thought to be the secretary's first move, and a shrewd one. The old family dynasty is to be established—the Sainsburys in the southern and the Bayards in the northern part of the state. The two old war horses are then to combine and the whole party machinery and patronage will be in their hands. The Mr. Spurgeon has been figured out so that Bayard is certain to reappear in the upper house of the national legislature.

POPULAR PEOPLE.

Wait Whitman is reduced to a wheel chair. Julian Hawthorne is at work on a philosophical novel.

Miss Sarah Irving, a niece of Washington Irving, welcomes the guests who visit her uncle's old home. Mr. James Russell Lowell is reported to have said that he intends to spend the rest of his life in this country.

Mr. Spurgeon is much troubled by the gout, but has no intention of retiring from the ministry, as has been reported. Mrs. Scullion, the dramatic reader, who was seriously ill during the summer, has recovered and begun her Western tour.

Henry James is sometimes spoken of as an American novelist. Mr. James, it is true, was born in the United States, but his father was an Englishman. Miss Minerva P. Whittier, recently a Salem public school principal, has started for the Sandwich Islands to accept a position as principal of the Kohala seminary.

Notwithstanding the late more rousing reports about the King of Portugal's health, it is known that he is paralyzed from the waist downward, and that his death is imminent.

BRIGHT EVENING, BRIGHT GIRL.
(Somerville Journal.)
It was a glorious evening.
The moon was full and bright.
The air was soft and balmy—
A perfect summer night.

Across the park they wandered.
A young man and a maid;
He was a little thingy,
She not a bit afraid.

The walks were half deserted
(The hour was growing late);
Faint lights on the benches
Were sitting tete-a-tete.

The sweet perfume of flowers
Fogged down the evening breeze;
The electric lights shone brightly
Among the dark-stemmed trees.

"Now, isn't it delightful?"
The simple young man said—
"These lights among the foliage,
The full moon overhead!"

She hesitated slightly,
Then glanced about the park;
"Well, yes," she said "or rather
"I would be if 'twas dark."

A CYGNET DANCE.
Vivid Description of an Ohio Ball by a Local Scribe.

The Cygnet (Ohio) Gusher of recent date has an account of a ball given by the Pleasure Seekers club of that town, which occurred "last Friday evening, night and next morning." It was truly a grand affair, as the Gusher remarks: "Promptly at 10 o'clock the grand march began, led by Miss Mary Shay, escorted by 'Tug' Wilson. The many maneuvers were skillfully executed, when the call to 'Halt,' dispersed the troops who began getting partners for the quadrille." There is a description of the costumes of the dancers, of which 300 different kinds of styles, and will give all of those whose names are known. "And among those given we reproduce a few, just as the Gusher reporter had them. There were, it will be seen, quite a variety of 'styles and kinds':

Mrs. Mayor Guy, very hair.
Mrs. Conductor Moran, pretty smiles.
Miss Mary Shay radiant with animation and pretty in black.
Miss Florence Miller looked pretty and danced simply lovely.

Mrs. J. E. Jones was pretty in dark brown ladies cloth. She danced simply elegant.
Miss Jessie Miller did not dance much but by her retiring disposition was kind attention was simply perfection in her exquisite dancing.

Tug Wilson wore a cowboy suit.
Dan Koch wore a cad of gum.
The Kern wore a diamond pin.
St. Sloan wore his hair dressed in Joe Green's best style.

W. J. Campbell, who is running for governor, wore an exhausted look.
F. Van Wazer wore a white shirt.
J. E. Jones wore light blue.
Charles Green looked as if he had just got out of a barber shop.

John McHenry wore neat-fitting penitentiary pantaloons.
The editor wore pants, vest, coat, suspenders and other tawdry too numerous to mention.

Trouble at Red Wing.
St. Paul, Oct. 15.—The mandamus case of O. M. Hall of Red Wing, against City Treasurer Reis, County Auditor Kain and M. J. Bell, the register of deeds, was heard before Judge Brill.

The writ was brought to compel the city treasurer to certify that all assessments for local improvements had been paid; the county auditor to certify as to the payment of taxes, and the register of deeds to record the certificate of the purchase of a certain lot of the old reform school property purchased by Mr. Hall.

There is an assessment of some $882 against this property for the grading of Marshall and St. Anthony avenues and other avenues and streets, which assessment the reform school people have refused to pay, on the ground of its being state property, and not subject to taxation. The judge held that the certificate of sale held by Mr. Hall was not a deed within the meaning of the law, and that no certificate of the city treasurer was necessary to entitle it to record.

"Bill" Erwin in Court.
St. Paul, Oct. 15.—The libel case of William Welch against W. W. Erwin, in which the plaintiff claims damages to the amount of $75,000, is on trial in Judge Kelly's court. The ground of the action is a certain statement made by the defendant in The St. Paul Globe, in which Welch was said to have at one time been indicted in Madison, Wis., for an infamous crime.

The Globe is the author of the article. Mr. Erwin was indicted in Hennepin county for criminal libel, and the present civil action was also begun against him.

Very Unbecoming.
Lovely tints in the wrong place are the sort of thing a jealous colorist contemplates—the peculiar endowment of our pig-tailed brethren who "hit the pipe"—is unbecoming. It suggests bile going astray, and the inference is correct. Pain beneath the ribs and shoulder blades, constipation, dyspepsia, furred tongue and sick headaches supplement this indication of the bilious. For liver complaint and its multifarious symptoms, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an infallible specific. It relaxes the bowels safely, but without gripping or violence. To the secretion of bile it gives a due impulse, but banishes an excess of it. It is a natural and healthy process. Sick headaches, sourness of the breath and fur upon the tongue disappear when it is used. It renews digestion, fortifies the system against malaria, counteracts a rheumatic tendency, and remedies inaction of the kidneys.

Dyspepsia

Makes the lives of many people miserable, causing distress after eating, sour stomach, sick headache, heartburn, loss of appetite, a faint, "all gone" feeling, bad taste, coated tongue, and irregularity of the bowels. Dyspepsia does not get well of itself. It requires careful attention, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which acts gently, yet efficiently. It tones the stomach, regulates the digestion, creates a good appetite, banishes headache, and a remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which does not distress the bowels, but gives me an immense amount of good. I gave me an appetite, and my food relished and satisfied the craving I had previously experienced."

Little Lumps of Wisdom

AND SOME MILD RE-
FLECTIONS CON-CERNING
INDUSTRY, ECONOMY
AND THRIFT.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise."
—Proverbs.

Did you ever think, dear reader, what a big, bustling world we live in. How every man seems to be bound, by the very law of his being, to work and toil and struggle to keep his head above water. We all know this by experience, and while it seems hard, yet as it is the common fate of mankind we are bound to do our level best and leave the results to God. But we, after all, are the architects of our own fortune. Some people fail in life because they are too lazy to work. Such people should learn a lesson from the industrious ant. But there are millions of industrious people who work hard and long, people of good habits and the best of citizens, and yet they fail utterly to accumulate anything for a rainy day. And why is it? Please listen and we will tell you: The secret of acquiring wealth is to put money where it will make money—in other words, where it will grow. The rich men of this country never got their wealth by day labor. More than 80 per cent of them commenced life in that way, but by saving up their earnings and putting them into judicious investments their wealth grew and increased, like the farmer's crops, while they slept. Kind reader, you can become a landowner and capitalist if you only will. No such opportunities have ever been placed before any people as we present to you. We have what will soon become very popular and high-priced suburban property, which we are selling at ground-floor prices and on terms so easy that anyone who has any desire to acquire property can buy one or more lots, pay a very small sum down and make the deferred payments without feeling it. If you want to embrace this great opportunity call and get a plat of Crosley Park and learn all about it. If you fail to do this, please reflect in after years that in the year of our Lord 1889 you had the ladder of fortune placed at your very feet and that you deliberately refused to climb. Think of these things, and come in at once and talk the matter over with us.

A Large Week's Record in Flour Handling—Today's Wheat.

Dull Market Principally For Cash Stuff—Trade Notes.

The market has been higher this forenoon with good demand for wheat, especially for cash stuff. The weekly report of flour in store shows a large quantity here, and a great deal more than a year ago. Flour seems to be coming forward more rapidly than usual at this season, and the past week has equalled any this season. The statement is as follows:

The market ruled weak and dull after the first hour and the close was with sellers of pretty much the whole list at 4¢ below the opening. Cash 1 hard opened unchanged at $3 with good trading early at that figure. No. 1 northern opened at 78½, was in large demand and sold to the extent of some 70 cars. It closed weak at 78½. No. 2 northern with good demand and good trading early at 76½. No. 3 small sales at 74½. October 1 hard item at 83½ early, ruled very dull and closed at 83. October 1 Northern opened at 78½, went to 78½, where it closed. November 1 hard opened at 82½, ruled very dull. November 1 northern sales at 78½, closed nominally at 78½. December opened at 82½, declined to 82½, and closed. December 1 northern closed at 78½. May very dull, was offered at 88½ without transactions, closed 88½ bid.

L. M. Hancock of Chicago is in the city.

This morning, while the hammer of the pile-driver on the Grand avenue bridge was being raised, the anchor chain broke and the driver tipped over.

Patsy Burke, who was on the driver for the purpose of blocking the hammer, leapt to the ground when he felt the driver falling, but unluckily he fell right under it and was instantly killed. His body is lying in the Windsor house awaiting the arrival of the coroner.

Freight trains are busy on the Incline railway hauling lumber for the depot at the top of the hill.

A horse employed on Second street got itself badly hurt yesterday by falling on a nail.

That Little Tickling.
In your throat, which makes you cough once in a while and keeps you constantly clearing your throat, arises from catarrh, Knease catarrh is a constitutional disease, the ordinary cough medicines all fail to hit the spot. What you need is a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many people who have taken this medicine for scrofula, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, and other troubles, have been surprised that it should cure this troublesome cough. But to know the actual cause of the cough is to solve the mystery. Many cases of consumption can be traced back to the neglect of catarrh in purifying the blood, building up the general health, and expelling the scrofulous taint which is the cause of catarrh and consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla to perfect health many persons on whom this dreaded disease seemed to have a firm hold.

MUSICAL NOTES.

This Week's Musicales—A Program—At Temple Opera.

Mrs. Dr. Stocker has made up two excellent programs that will be given before Duluth society at her residence Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. The musicales are to be given for the purpose of forming a nucleus of a fund to be used in the purchase of a musical library, which may be in time added to the Duluth public library.

This week's concert will be given at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. M. Stocker, 205 East Third street. Home talent only will appear, but that is of such excellence as to assure no fault finding from the most critical audiences. Thursday evening's program is the following:

ITALY.
Rossini—Overture, "L'Italiana in Algeri."
Miss Belle Winchee, Miss Minnie Montague.

MUSIC IN ITALY.
Pader.—Miss Wright Woodbridge.

Tomorrow evening Mr. E. B. Perry, the blind pianist of Boston, assisted by Miss Minnie B. Rainey and Mr. H. Parker Robinson, gives a concert at the Methodist church. Although afflicted by nature with blindness, Mr. Perry has taken a leading place among the great pianists of America. So talented is he in and in such subtle sympathy with the keyboard are his fingers, that he plays the most difficult compositions, necesary jumps the whole distance of the board with a technique difficult to find in some of the greatest pianists who are endowed with good eyesight. A low, musical voice makes his explanatory lectures a most enjoyable part of his entertainments. The following is the program:

Chopin.—Fantasie Impromptu.
Schubert.—Berceuse.
Tost.—"Wie ich dich in Melner."
Toffman.—"Aus Scherz und Spott."
Rubinstein.—"Intermezzo."

Next Sunday evening at Turner hall Mr. Frank Hoar gives his orchestra rehearsal.

E. C. Evans, who will paint the city scenes for the Templeopera, arrived last evening.

The two drops, wings, etc. were shipped from Sossan & Landis, Chicago, studio Saturday. The curtain will be sent by express from Chicago tomorrow.

This evening will see the last of the balcony seats put in position.

Charles R. Bacon, business manager for Rose Coghlan, arrived in the city this morning from St. Paul. Miss Coghlan has begun her most successful tour, says Mr. Bacon. Her season thus far has been a continuous ovation. Her recent performance in Sioux City the audience was so enthusiastic that at the end of one act the people rose on their feet, cheering the charming creator of "Peg Woffington."

HELP FOR THE STARVING.
People in Nelson County Want Help—To bridge the Canal.

The Chamber of Commerce held its regular weekly session this morning. The canal bridge matter first came up for discussion. The secretary reported that he had, in pursuance of instructions, sent for estimates for a bridge across the canal. Those received gave probable cost at from $40,000 to $70,000. A committee was finally appointed to talk the formation of a bridge company among the business men, and then secure permission of the council to build the structure.

R. S. Munger, as chairman of committee to secure a bill in which Mr. Loring of Minneapolis, could speak on the park question, reported that Manager Haycock of Temple opera, wanted $100 for the use of the house for one night. The matter was referred. The obstruction of the canal was also subject that came up for discussion. Messrs. Wadhams, Walbank and Edison were finally appointed a committee to request the city council to pass an ordinance, making it a punishable matter to obstruct any highway within the city limits.

Communications were received from Nelson county, North Dakota, again asking for aid. The condition of the people in this section of Dakota is really pitiable. With total failure of crops in 1897, 1898 and 1899 the farmers are bankrupt. With winter coming on aid must be had or severe suffering must ensue. The chamber passed resolutions, calling upon the citizens for aid. All donations of clothing and money should be left at the Well-Stone Mercantile company's building and the Manitoba railway will transport the donations free of charge. Subscriptions may also be left at The Herald office.

Auction of Places.
Tonight at The Spalding the auction sale of seats for the opening of Temple opera will take place. The sale will commence at 7:30. After tonight the seats will be sold at Cook's drug store. There will be a large and lively crowd at the hotel this evening and no little bidding for choice seats.

SUPERIOR NOTES.
Miss Lillian Snyder of Yankton, Dakota, has taken a position with the Western Union Telegraph company at West Superior.

Mr. Wm. P. Vary, route agent of the American Express company, is at the Euclid house.

Mr. T. R. Patterson leaves today for Hinckley, having accepted a position with the Eastern Minnesota railway at that place.

Contractors began this morning to tear up sidewalks on Tower avenue between Seventh and Eighth streets, preparatory to lowering buildings to the pavement grade.

The Murray mill on Corners Point has shut down after cutting 15,000,000 feet of lumber.

The auction sale of seats for the opening of Temple Opera will take place tonight at The Spalding.

Overcoats.
For fall and winter in Meltons, Chinchillas, Korseys, etc., etc., at THE EAGLE CLOTHING HOUSE.

The auction sale of seats for the opening of Temple Opera will take place tonight at The Spalding.

Who Ninarod Was.

Ninarod, according to the Scriptures, was a mighty hunter, contemporaneous with Babylonian celebrities. His exploits are not given in detail, but they must have been wonderful. Mighty hunters of local fame in Minnesota at present should take a trip over the Saint Paul and Duluth railroad in search of sport. The vicinity of Moose, White Bear, Chicago and Forest Lakes furnishes small game, and in the vicinity of Hinckley and Northern Pacific Junction heavier game may be found. This promises to be a good hunting season. For these points take the Duluth Short line, the quickest route between St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and West Superior, with close connections beyond. Address A. B. Plough, general passenger agent, St. Paul.

DULUTH'S RELIABLE AND LEADING CLOTHIERS,

MANUFACTURERS OF CLOTHING AT RETAIL.

WE MAY HAVE IMITATORS, BUT NO COMPETITORS.

FACTS! PROOFS! BEAT THEORIES! CLAIMS!

Ready-Made versus Tailor-Made.

Many people have been led to believe and told by other dealers that OUR TAILOR-MADE CLOTHING was nothing but ready-made clothing under a new name. To show the falsity of these statements by comparison in the workmanship, the shape, the fitting, etc., you now have the opportunity of seeing both side by side in our store. The difference is this: We can sell you good ready-made suits in all wool Cheviots, Corkscrews, Cassimeres, Tweeds, etc., at $10. You would be willing to pay $15 to $18 for, and probably pay ready-made stores such prices. Our tailor-made suits are sold for $15, $20, $22, $25, $28 and $30. Our prices on ready-made clothing show how much less we sell it to you than others. Our $15, $20 and $25 tailor-made suits and overcoats show how much less our price is than the merchant tailor's for the same goods. Why? Because we are the only clothiers in Duluth who manufacture and wholesale clothing, saving you one profit. Being the heaviest buyers of furnishing goods, underwear, gloves and mittens in Duluth, we buy goods at prices and quantities that little fellows can't touch.

Register today, in order to vote on the parks bond question, if you have not already done so. If it is really impossible to take the little time necessary to put your name on the list today, bear in mind without fail that next Tuesday is the only registration day remaining. The usual polling places in the wards are the registering places.

Who killed Dr. Cronin is the second question in Chicago now. The prize one is, Who tried to bribe the jury in the case? Some minor court officers, and a lawyer's clerk has been indicted. These may be the tools, but nobody supposes them to be the principals. Back of them, who are lurking? That is what Chicago wants to know and what Chicago really wants to know she is likely to find out.

It is now feared with reason that the rock avalanche which wrought such destruction at Quebec will soon be followed by others that will hopelessly wreck the famous citadel and the magnificent Dufferin terrace. The memorable spot where the gallant Montgomery fell in leading his assault, is hopelessly doomed, for the next impending landslide will effect all trace of it under a mishapen mass of splintered rock. The destruction of such a majestic work of nature, which heroic deeds have made one of the great monuments of the world, is a national calamity, and will be felt as such by England, France, and this country as well as Canada.

A movement is on foot in Georgia to secure the erection of a statue in the capitol at Washington to the late Dr. Crawford Long, for whom the honor of the discovery and practical use of ether as an anesthetic in surgery is confidently maintained. If the conclusion of Dr. Sims is sustained that Dr. Long first employed ether as an anesthetic in 1842, this application antedates by four years the use of ether by Doctors Morton and Jackson in Boston and by two years the use of nitrous oxide gas as an anesthetic by Dr. Horace Wells at Hartford, Congress by its special appropriation has recognized the claim of Doctors Morton and Jackson but the evidence adduced by Dr. Sims in his history of the discovery of anesthesia has never been refuted and Dr. Long's service appears to be well entitled to commemoration. To the great pioneer and founder, Oglethorpe, Georgia's first statue is to be erected at Washington. If the present plan is carried out and beside him will be flung the statue of the pioneer conqueror of pain.

Huron did not get there in the race but it was not the fault of The Huronite. This whooper from whoopeville answers an exchange that wanted to know where the cities were that Pierre distanced? "Sioux Falls"—Oh, it is about 120 miles southeast of Huron. "Where is Watertown?" About 70 miles northeast of Huron. "Where is Redfield?" About 45 miles northwest of Huron. "Where is Chamberlain?" About 70 miles southwest of Huron. "Where is Mitchell?" About 60 miles southeast of Huron. And where is Huron? Why, it's at Huron! Thus The Huronite from Huron lays out the other towns, but Sioux Falls gets back through the mouth of its press with the story of the New Yorker who was making a trip down the Mississippi river on a steamer. At a landing where nothing was to be seen except cords of wood and one man, the traveler stepped off the boat to stretch his legs, and got into conversation with the lone inhabitant, who asked, "What are you from?" "From New York," was the reply. "What's that?" was the next query. "Oh, about a thousand miles from here." "Gee-whittaker! You live a long ways from anywhere."

The recent spreading of Mr. Erasmus Wiman's pet plan of commercial union before the Pan-American conference at Niagara Falls has called out some sharp retorts, one of which is a flat contradiction of Mr. Wiman's most important statements. In this Mr. Sydney Smith of Toronto, declares that commercial union is generally regarded in Canada as a mere cloak for annexation, and for this reason has only a few supporters. Mr. Wiman's assertion that in all the recent bye elections commercial unionists have been returned to the Dominion parliament is met by a blunt denial. "The most popular sentiment in Canada," says Mr. Smith, "is for closer union with Great Britain than now exists, and not for a policy which would shut out her merchandise and open our doors free to the United States. The masses here are loyal to the motherland, and see no reason why a change should be made in the government's economic policy or in their policy generally." Whether Mr. Wiman or Mr. Smith is the nearer right in the statement of public opinion in Canada is of no present practical concern to us, unless Canada is prepared to conform to this, for some of the foremost advocates of commercial union in Canada will agree to no union which is not a concession to free trade views. The Canadian tariff does not suit us and ours does not suit the Canadians as a body. Hence we have no faith in the patching up of any acceptable scheme of union at present.

Duluth's share in the appropriation recommended by the United States engineer corps for the improvement of rivers and harbors covers only the amount strictly necessary to carry on the work now in progress, and is considerably less than could be advantageously expended. If more cannot be secured, every effort should be made at least to prevent the irrational passing of this appropriation by congress. Of all economic absurdities committed in our national legislation, what is known as the average cut, in the design of giving something to so many claimants as possible, in order to log roll an appropriation through, is one of the most glaring. An insufficient appropriation is too often a sheer waste of public money. It is based on the idea ostensibly that half a loaf is better than no bread, but in river and harbor work the application of this idea is preposterous. The truth is, as every one knows, though every one will not confess, that appropriations are divided up as so many sops to so many congressmen rather than as the actual needs of each case require, and there is no practical remedy for this condition of things until the appropriation of appropriations is entirely taken out of the hands of congress. There is no reform which will be of more practical service to the commerce of the country than this.

ELAM CHASE'S FIDDLE.

[Robert C. Taylor in Hartford Current.]
Sometimes when I get to feelin' sorter blue an' melancholy,
Alone, alone, there comes a fiddle,
Mighty faint, but mighty jolly,
Music that just sets me a-dancin'.
Fairly sets my feet a-pumpin'.
"Balance partners! Down the middle!"
Settin' every couple swingin'.
Hear John Elam Chase's fiddle,
Twenty couple all a-goin'.
Eighty eager feet a-soundin'.
Every while, the music growin'.
Sets them eighty feet a-pumpin'.
Sets their music still repeatin'.
Says my poor old heart a-leavin'.
"Balance partners! Down the middle!"
All then twenty couple swingin'.
Hear John Elam Chase's fiddle!
Sometimes Sabath, right in meetin',
Even when the parson's prayin',
Seems I hear them notes repeatin'.
Hear John Elam's fiddle playin'.
Playin' sweet, playin' sweet,
And the dancers' eager feet are Whirlin' to the promenade's ringin'.
"Balance partners! Down the middle!"
Swingin' every couple swingin'.
To John Elam Chase's fiddle.

SPORTING NOTES.

Keefe, of the New York ball team, led the league in pitching.
Yale has lately beaten Wesleyan in two championship games of football.
The annual Yale-Harvard football match will be played at Springfield.
It is possible that a syndicate will purchase the St. Louis ball team from Von der Ahe.
In seven games played between New York and Brooklyn ball teams the latter club has won four.
Jake Schaefer has arranged for a nine-inch balk line billiard tournament to take place at Chicago Nov. 1st.
There were twelve ball games in the league last season. Three games more were played this season than last.
After New York, Boston and Philadelphia have divided the league baseball receipts they will be mighty little left for the other five teams.
Oshkosh will try to put a ball team in the Western league next season, if John S. Barnes, the St. Paul manager, will consent to run it. Mr. Barnes will not consent.
When Cincinnati defeated St. Louis yesterday she gave Brooklyn the American Association baseball pennant. Next Saturday the first of the world's championship series between New York and Brooklyn will take place.

Parson's Business College, Duluth, Minn.
The outlook for this excellent institution of learning for the coming season is very favorable. Already a number of our leading citizens have sent their sons and daughters for a full business course, and several prominent business men are taking bookkeeping and such other branches as are needed in their various callings.
Students are also enrolled from Wisconsin, Iowa and the Dakotas, and a number of applications have been received from others who are to enter soon.

Besides bookkeeping, penmanship, commercial law and careful training in the English branches, students become experts as typewriters and shorthand reporters and readily secure first-class positions. In fact the demand of late has been much greater than the college could supply.
Professor W. F. Parsons, who is also well known as a successful business man, is president of the college, and has associated with him in the management his brother, Professor A. C. Parsons, who is a graduate of Oberlin and of the law department of Michigan university, and has been a prominent educator in Michigan for twenty-five years.
This college is a valuable acquisition to the business and literary interests of Duluth, and it will receive the hearty support and patronage of our citizens.

I told him I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, knew what it was, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other. When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked like a person in consumption. A Boston lady, whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below: "In one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla, knew what it was, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other. When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELIZA A. GOSW, 41 Terrace Street, Boston.

WHEAT IN OCTOBER.

Large Receipts Expected for the Month—Cars on the Way.

Good Market for Cash Wheat, Futures Dull—Flax Cargo.

Up to last Saturday night the receipts of wheat at Duluth for the month of October reached the very respectable total of 2,000,000. Already this week has increased that amount by two-thirds of a million, and the best of the month is yet to come. There are on track on the Eastern, Manitoba and Northern Pacific bound for Duluth elevators no less than 2700 cars of wheat, all due at elevators here in the next few days. It is quite probable that receipts for October will look to 5,000,000 bu wheat and 2,000,000 bu more, as flour. The Northern Pacific road still far behind the Manitoba in receipts, but farmers on its line are engaged in filling their granaries and road elevators. About the time these are filled the stacked wheat will be ready to come forward, in fact some of it is already appearing. It is a magnificent quality of grain far ahead of what was sent early. Wheat opened firm this morning with good demand for spot. Everything offered found ready purchasers. The continued good shipping demand in this market for the past few days, and the fact that our largest receiving houses have been the most persistent buyers is the strong feature of this market. The market ruled dull after the first hour but very firm, and the close was strong with buyers at $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ above the opening. Cash 1 hard wheat opened with sales of 17,000 bu at $\$3.15$, followed by fifteen cars at $\$3.14$. No. 1 northern opened with sales of 10,000 bu at $\$3.14$. It closed at $\$3.14$. No. 2 northern firm with active trading at $\$3.14$. No. 3 sales 8000 bu at $\$3.13$. October opened at $\$3.13$, closed nominally at $\$3.14$. No. 2 northern sold 30,000 bu at $\$3.14$. November closed at $\$3.14$, followed by good trading at $\$3.14$, $\$3.15$ was asked at the close. May opened at $\$3.15$, sold on the split $\$3.14\frac{1}{2}$, with large sales near the close at $\$3.14$, with buyers and sellers at $\$3.14$. November corn firm and unchanged at $\$1.31$.

The Day's Movement.
Cars on track this morning were 154, Northern Pacific 120, Eastern 34. Corn on track 13 cars. Receipts were 180,253 bu wheat. Shipments, 92,500 bu wheat. Shipments by vessels were as follows: Mills, 70,000 bu; St. Louis, 22,500 bu, Buffalo; both wheat.

A Flax Cargo.
The first car loads of a cargo of 60,000 bu flax consigned from the West to Duluth arrived at elevators this morning. Special clearing machinery is needed to care for flax seed, and no little pains have been taken by the Lake Superior Elevator company to fix this machinery, in expectation that this first cargo may not be the last. The handling of flax seed here should become a branch of the grain industry of no small importance. The 60,000 bu now on the way will be sent East soon.

BURNED OFF THEIR TAILS.
Valuable Overcoats Lost a Part of Their Beauty—An Old Fire.

This morning about 5 o'clock an alarm was turned in from box 34 in a police station, who had discovered fire in Sam Loebe's clothing store, corner of Second avenue west and Superior street. The fire department responded to the alarm, and in a few moments had extinguished the conflagration. The loss will, according to Mr. Loebe's estimate, be nearly $2000.

It was one of the most peculiar fires that ever happened in the city. The police officer had his attention called to it by the smell of smoke coming from the store. He woke up Mr. Loebe, who lives over the store, and turned in the alarm. When the firemen came the smoke was so thick it was almost impossible to enter the place. No flames were to be seen, but the fire was at last located in a pile of overcoats that lay beneath the electric light. A fire had started among the clothing and had burned the tails off $2000 worth of fine overcoats. The other damage to goods was by water. The stock was insured for $18,000 in companies represented by Mandell & Hoopes and Marvin & Hawks.

The origin of the blaze cannot be learned; it is ascribed by some to a spark of carbon from the electric lamp, but this theory is untenable, even if a spark could have fallen and remained alive long enough to start a fire. There had been no light in the store since 10 o'clock the night before, the electric circuit being stopped at that hour.

EXPRESS CHANGES.

The American to Lose Two Important Routes—A Long System.

The new Northern Express company takes control of the Express business of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic road on November 1. Arrangements have been made for starting in and the company is now negotiating for quarters here at which to carry on the terminal business of the line. It will operate the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic road in close connection with the Dominion Express company, controlling the lines of the Canadian Pacific railway. Several stockholders in the Northern company are also stockholders in the Dominion, which latter is ostensibly a child of the C. P. R.

Another feature of express business that will affect Duluth is the late decision of the Manitoba road to conduct its own express business. It also has formerly been carried on by the American Express company. It is not probable that this change will be made before Jan. 1, but that it will take place then seems certain despite the denial of the railway and express officials. The three express companies, that of the Manitoba, road covering over 3300 miles of the Great Northern railway, and soon to reach from Seattle to Duluth; the Northern Express, covering 500 miles of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, and the Dominion Express, covering the 4700 miles of the Canadian Pacific railway, will be operated as one system, embracing 8500 miles, nearly as large a system as any of the older companies. It is possible that the Northern company is "built to sell" and will never operate, but in the light of its connections this seems improbable.

AT WEST DULUTH.

Notes of Building and Personal News of the Day.

The body of Patrick Burke, killed by the pile driver yesterday, was removed to Duluth last night. It was taken in charge by Burke & Co., the undertakers. The funeral will take place tomorrow from the residence of John McManus at the West End.

The Sunday school children of the Methodist church will give an entertainment in the church on Friday evening next.

Conductor Diggle of the Short line left last night for St. Louis to meet his wife. Henry Oliver of St. Paul will punch tickets until his return.

The Junior Mascot club of Duluth give a masquerade ball at Johnson's hall this evening.

The electric light house is receiving its first coat of paint. A. W. MacKase is doing the work.

The inhabitants of West Duluth are patiently waiting for the St. Paul and Duluth Railroad company to put on a late opera train. It is to be hoped that they will give it soon.

Good house for rent or sale on good terms. Some of the best bargains in lots in the city.

Cheap acreage in West Duluth. Lots in Clinton Place, Carlton Place and Wilmington addition at such prices as will insure a quick sale. OFFER & WALKER.

The Wilmington addition to West Duluth offers exceptionally flattering inducements to investors, and is attracting the consideration of the more careful investors on account of its nearness to the Car works, and the Short line, is also lying lots, fine view, cheap prices and easy terms.

TIMBER STEALING.

A Government Agent Cuts the Boundary of the Canadian Timber Thieves.

A report of J. S. Wallace, United States timber agent at Duluth, just made to the commissioner of the land office, tells of extensive timber depredations carried on by Canadians along the boundary line northwest of Duluth. Mr. Wallace went along the border last winter. He took possession of a large amount of property that had been stolen by the Canadians. The logs he sold for $8 per 1000 feet. The Canadians bring their cuttings across the border and hold them out to the lumbermen. They can find it. Forty miles above the mouth of the Big Fork there is very extensive and wasteful trespass, which has been going on for the past five years.

About one and a half miles below Manitoba rapids, on Rainy river, there is a saw mill on the Canadian side and another ready to move across to the American side. Near Pine River, on the American side, is a boom, which will hold 50,000,000 feet of logs. The timber for this boom was all cut in the American forests from Indian lands. Along Rainy river, on the Canadian side, there are nine saw mills supplied from the American forests. A lock is being constructed at Fort Francis, the head of navigation, which will allow all boats to get into Rainy river. The lumber taken amounts to millions of feet. There are also many run holes run by Canadians on the American side, and the Indians are furnished liquor. There is also a distillery hid away in the woods. Mr. Wallace recommends the appointment of a special agent of the treasury department who shall be stationed in that vicinity.

Accompanying Mr. Wallace's report is an endorsement signed by many Duluth citizens, asking his appointment as special agent of the treasury. The commissioner is determined to put a stop to the pillaging of the forests, and he has decided to appoint Mr. Wallace as special agent of the land office and instruct him to prevent further stealing. He will be instructed to at once proceed to the section where the thieves have been at work and confiscate all logs.

A local view of the matter puts it in rather a different light. Those who have been familiar with matters along the boundary regard Mr. Wallace's report as highly colored. They say the boom timber used in the construction of the Rainy River boom was fairly paid for and the boom was built and until lately operated by Americans, among whom may be mentioned Dennis Ryan and W. J. Macaulay. Of St. Paul, who also owned the largest saw mill at Rat Portage where all this so-called stolen timber is sawn. Lumbering on Rainy river tributaries has been carried on upon the American side by Caldwell & McGuire of Duluth, Ryan & Macaulay of St. Paul, the late Charles Sellers of Towson, Saunders & Bailey of Duluth, P. Agnew of Eau Claire and T. Nester of Baraga, Mich. The lock at Fort Francis was commenced in 1870 and abandoned in 1879 and was for the purpose of overcoming the falls at Fort Francis.

The Fireman's Ball.

The Duluth firemen gave their annual ball last night in the Central fire station, the second story of the building being entirely devoted to the event. It was a most enjoyable dance to which only invited guests were admitted and the dancing lasted until a late hour this morning. About seventy-five couples were present, and excellent music was furnished by White's orchestra. There were a large number of guests from neighboring cities, including Kiel, Libby of the Superior department. Luncheon was served at midnight in one of the ante rooms. The splendid collection of the station itself was frequently spoken of by those present and an exhibition turnout was given for the benefit of the visitors.

The Clyde Works.

Articles of incorporation of the new Clyde Iron work appear today. A meeting of the company, for organization, will be held this evening. It is probable that officers will be elected as follows: C. P. Craig, president; J. W. Anderson, vice president; D. G. Cash, secretary and treasurer; J. W. Anderson, general manager. The company will put the plant on a large scale, put in some new machinery, although it is well supplied now, and carry on the business on a more extensive scale than ever before. Especial attention will be paid to vessel repair work.

Notes of Music.

At the musicale to be given at the residence of Mrs. S. M. Stocker tomorrow evening, no admission will be charged, and all friends of music are cordially invited to be present. During the evening a contribution toward a musical library will be made.

The piano recital and concert by E. Baxter Perry, assisted by local talent, will occur this evening. A full program was published in The Herald last night. The concert will be held at the First Methodist church, and will be well worth hearing. A large number of tickets have been sold.

Getting Ready for the Bishop.

Let every one who can, attend the supper and musical given in Mannheim's block tomorrow night. A pleasant evening is assured to all, and as the proceeds are to be devoted to furnishing the bishop's residence, it ought to prove a financial success.

MARINE MATTERS.

The Beatty Line's New Ship—Winter Rates—General Notes.

The Polson Iron works of Owen Sound have a contract to build a second ferry for the Canadian Pacific railway for use on the Detroit river. It is 235 feet in length, and will be a duplicate of the one now in the stocks. Both vessels are of massive design.

Hugh McMillan, the Chicago agent of the Western Transit company, predicts that the opening winter rate on corn will be four cents, and that early in the winter most of the boats will be chartered at that figure. He would not be surprised if vessel room for 10,000,000 bushels of corn was in the river when navigation closed, and he bases his predictions on the immense corn crop, and the fact that Chicago elevators will be rapidly filled to their capacity as soon as vessels ceased carrying it forward.

A sensational damage suit in which prominent parties are involved, has been commenced in the United States circuit court by Hugh Steele of Duluth, who had the government contract for building the breakwater at Ashland, against Capt. B. Doherty, a lumberman of that city. Last August Doherty caused the arrest and imprisonment of Steele for alleged theft of boom sticks. Steele was acquitted, and now brings suit for $100,000 against Doherty.

The new steamer building at Sarnia for the Sarnia-Duluth line is getting forward well and will be in commission by the end of the season. It will be a fine, staunch vessel, fully equal if not superior to the United Empire, which now carries the distinction of being the favorite passenger ship in Lake Superior and Lake Huron business.

The Beatty line is handling all freight that it can carry, and has been obliged to refuse St. Paul and Minneapolis freight for some time. Last week this line carried 30,000 barrels of flour from Duluth.

General Casey, chief of engineers, makes the following recommendations, among others, for appropriations for continuing work on some of the principal improvements under his charge during the year ending June 30, 1899. Hay lake, Mich., St. Marys river, Mich., $200,000; St. Marys falls canal, St. Marys river, Mich., $1,250,000; Saginaw river, Mich., $125,000; St. Clair falls, Mich., $200,000; St. Marys river, Wis., $200,000; Mississippi river, Minneapolis to Des Moines Rapids, $1,000,000; harbor of refuge, Grand Marais, $100,000; Duluth harbor, $150,000; total amount recommended by General Casey for river and harbor improvements, $3,180,000. The total amount appropriated for the year ending June 30, 1899, was $2,287,417.

Who Nimrod Was.

Nimrod, according to the Scriptures, was a mighty hunter, contemporaneous with Babylonian celebrities. His exploits are not given in detail, but they must have been wonderful. Mighty hunters of local fame in Minnesota at present should take a trip over the Saint Paul and Duluth railroad in search of sport. The vicinity of Moose, White Bear, Chicago and Forest Lakes furnishes small game, and in the vicinity of Hinckley and Northern Pacific Junction heavier game may be found. This promises to be a good hunting season. For these points take the Duluth Short line, the quickest route between St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and West Superior, with close connections beyond. Address A. B. Dought, general passenger agent, St. Paul.

Unitarian literature furnished free upon application at Room D, Hunter block.

WORLD OF COMMERCE.

Wheat is Slow Except for Cash Stuff and a Dull Market.

The Daily Movement--Notes of Grain Trade at All Points.

Wheat opened easier this morning. Sellers were stubborn, the demand was good, and the market ruled firm but dull throughout the session. Trading in wheat futures was small, excepting for May delivery. The nearer deliveries were in demand, but sellers were scarce. The market closed firm with buyers at outside prices.

Cash 1 hard opened at 83, followed by a trade at 83 1/2. It ruled firm, sold up to 83 1/2, closing firm with that bid for car lots, round lots 83 1/2. No. 1 northern started at 78 1/2, advanced to 79 1/2, and was in demand. Closed firm at 79. No. 2 northern good trading at 76 1/2. No. 3 wheat dull, 1/2 to 3/4 higher to buy. October firmly held, sellers scarce, sales at 83 1/2. November 81, later at 83 1/2, closed dull and easy 81. December opened at 83, sold at 83 1/2, closed nominally at 83. December 1, northern dull, 79. Year dull, 81 at the close. May wheat opened at 88 1/2, with next business at 89. Sagged off to 88 1/2, followed by further business at 88 1/2. It closed firmer at 89.

The Flour Market.
The Northwestern Miller today says: Heavy as the flour production was for the week ending Oct. 5, the mills have slightly improved on the figures. The aggregate output for the week was 168,000 bbls, against 164,200 bbls the previous week, and 187,000 bbls for the time in 1888. Twenty-one mills are in operation, producing at the rate of about 27,000 bbls per twenty-four hours. Low water is still a leading factor in operations, none of the water mills escape its effect, but, while some of them can make two-thirds, two or three are especially bothered and their operations are irregular. A full crop comes over the flour market during the past week, it apparently being due to the weakness caused in wheat by the government crop report. Local millers have considerable orders on their books, and they are holding prices firm. It is contended that wheat is too high, even for present prices of flour, and millers feel strong. A certain new country mill is credited with cutting prices a good deal, in order to get its flour prominently before the trade, but it has not been followed very extensively. Foreign trade is usually reported light, though about everybody is well sold ahead on bakers'. The call for the latter grade is all that can be met. The direct exports for the week were 55,070 bbls, against 51,530 bbls for the preceding week.

The Day's Movement.
Cars on track this morning were 268; Northern Pacific, 112; Eastern, 156. Receipts were 24,082 bu wheat. Shipments, 72,079 bu wheat. Shipments by vessels were as follows: Florida, 71,100 bu wheat to Buffalo.

The Clyde Iron Works.
The stockholders of the Clyde Iron company met this morning and organized by electing C. P. Craig president, Jay W. Anderson vice-president and general manager, James Cash secretary and treasurer. Mr. Anderson has entered upon the duties of his position already in such effective fashion that he has secured the agency for the big structural iron works of Carnegie, Phipps & Co., at Pittsburgh, and has several plans for extending the business of the concern.

AT THE CLERK'S OFFICE.
Clerk of Court Pressnell was kept busy this morning filing notices of attachment and liens against various parties. F. R. Anson of the District Telegraph company has had an attachment issued against him in favor of Paden & Co. for $300.50 for telegraph poles, and the plaintiff's attorney in the affidavit that the debt was fraudulently contracted.

Manuel Galtit has filed a lien for $51.51 against John Wilcox for labor performed and a number of logs belonging to Wilcox have been attached.

Judge Ensign ordered an attachment to issue against E. Ralph for $119.55 in favor of the Minneapolis Furniture company.

Judge Stearns yesterday issued an attachment against Frank Dandria's stock of cigars, fruits and notions to satisfy the claim of Charles Schiller, and other parties who have assigned to him, amounting to $530. Dandria has been absent from the city a couple of weeks and is believed to have flown to sunny Italy. He is said to have a number of other debts in the city, and two Italians claim to have bought his business before he left the city. The affair is in bad shape.

Marriage licenses were issued to Oliver E. Bereman and Ella Wilson, and Johan Erik Oloson and Minnie Anderson.

ROSE COGHLAN.
Something About Temple Opera and Its Opening--The Force.

This talented actress, who is to open Temple Opera, is probably not quite as familiarly known in the West as she is in the East. There her name is sufficient guarantee of the character of the entertainment she offers, and the simple announcement that she is to appear needs but little supplementary work by advance agents and lithograph hangers. Her new piece, "Jocelyn," has its reputation yet to make, though it is heralded by very kindly notices from the critics. What she can do as Stephanie in "Forget-me-not" and as Peg Woffington in Charles Reade's mellow old comedy of "Masks and Faces" is not a matter of doubt. She is an artist in both these parts, as she will doubtless prove to be an artist in Jocelyn.

The personnel of the new opera force will be as follows: Dr. George B. Haycock, manager; A. M. Miller, Jr., treasurer; W. W. Robertson, head usher; Carl Schilling, musical director; J. W. Lewis, stage manager; David Condon, property manager; Joseph Christie, doorkeeper; Arthur Flint, gallery doorkeeper; William Burgess, electrician.

The sale of seats for the opening now amounts to over $2000. Over $200 worth of tickets were sold between 8 and 9 this morning.

Want Him to Change.
"Oh, how uncomfortable I feel in this suit of clothes," says Mr. Smith, coming home from his office, to his wife. "I am in perfect misery. Please, Mary, help me to get this coat off." "Well, John, it is your own fault. You are always complaining, and still stick to that old foggy tailor. Why don't you go to Silverstone Bros. and get a decent suit made? Everybody seems to speak so highly of them." "Hard to change, dear Mary, after dealing with a man for the last five years," answered Mr. Smith. "But I will take your advice and try them." He got his clothes and was given satisfaction in every respect, and Mrs. Smith was more than satisfied, especially being saved the annoyance of helping her husband three times a day to get his coat off and on, and instead his grunting, to find the most pleasant smile on his countenance.

DULUTH'S RELIABLE AND LEADING CLOTHIERS,

MANUFACTURERS OF CLOTHING AT RETAIL.

WE MAY HAVE IMITATORS, BUT NO COMPETITORS.

FACTS! PROOFS! BEAT THEORIES! CLAIMS!

Ready-Made versus Tailor-Made.

Many people have been led to believe and told by other dealers that OUR TAILOR-MADE CLOTHING was nothing but ready-made clothing under a new name. To show the falsity of these statements by comparison in the workmanship, the shape, the fitting, etc., you now have the opportunity of seeing both side by side in our store. The difference is this: We can sell you good ready-made suits in all wool Cheviots, Corkscrews, Cassimeres, Tweeds, etc., at $10. You would be willing to pay $15 to $18 for, and probably pay ready-made stores such prices. Our tailor-made suits are sold for $15, $20, $22, $25, $28 and $30. Our prices on ready-made clothing show how much less we sell it to you than others. Our $15, $20 and $25 tailor-made suits and overcoats show how much less our price is than the merchant tailor's for the same goods. Why? Because we are the only clothiers in Duluth who manufacture and wholesale clothing, saving you one profit. Being the heaviest buyers of furnishing goods, underwear, gloves and mittens in Duluth, we buy goods at prices and quantities that little fellows can't touch.

Entered at the postoffice at Duluth, Minn., as second-class mail matter.

The Washington office of the Herald is at 141 New York avenue, N. W., where the paper is kept on file and where The Herald correspondent will welcome visitors from the Northwest.

Look out for The Herald's eight page edition tomorrow. It will be a word picture of Duluth in the bright light. Just the thing for Saturday evening reading and enough in it for Sunday, too. There's a prize in it for the newsboys, too. Who'll win it?

One of the Brazilian delegates says no king ever travelled in the style in which the Pan-Americanians are making the tour of the United States. If this is republican simplicity, thrones are no object to them.

See that your name is on the registration list. If not put it on without fail next Tuesday. Remember that is the last day for registering to vote on the question of the park drive and grounds for Duluth. We give a list of the registering places in the wards in another column of The Herald today.

It is reported from Birmingham, Ala., that a Scotch chemist named Archibald has discovered a process by which all phosphorus may be removed from iron and the ore converted into Bessemer pig at a cost of only fifty cents a ton. This, as Artus Ward used to say, is important if true. But it is easier and cheaper to purge ore on paper than on the fire.

Those New York directors who are so sure that the wires of their companies are all right should have a taste of Punch's prescription for preventing accidents. On railroads Punch would strap a director in front of each engine, and the like suggestion would send a director up every electric wire pole to feel of the wires ahead of a line-man. If the wires don't shock the directors, the suggestion shouldn't.

The Western Union Telegraph company's annual report is able to show that the average cost of sending messages was 22.4 cents in 1889, against 23.2 in the previous year. We like to see the company save a cent, but we don't like so well to see that the average charge to the public for messages remains at 31.2 cents—just what it was a year ago. The company can well afford to divide its savings with its customers.

Villard is on deck and no mistake. He has met the enemy and they are his. His great reconstruction scheme has gone through like a shot, in spite of the wet blankets thrown on it and the opposition has gone down on its knees. Now if he can place his new mortgage bonds as successfully as he has cleared the way for their issue, his crown as railroad king will be firmly set on. We hope he will, for Duluth has a big stake in this crowning achievement. Success means a terminal here that will exalt the head of the lakes.

Don't you hear that knocking at the door? If you don't you must be deaf, Mr. President. There is South Dakota, which has actually burst the door in, because you were too slow to suit her in opening it, and there are her first-born twin senators, which she shoved in, still standing in the entry. Why don't you ask them up stairs to the senate chamber! What's that you say! South Dakota too fresh, no right to break the door down. The twins, no senators, but simply Citizen Money and Citizen Bettigrew with senators' caps on. Who is that talking? Is it you, after all, or the ingenious correspondent who first guesses at your opinion and then tangles it up with his own? The voice says that you will let three knockers in without waiting any longer for Montana to get out of her snarl. We hope so, for the country wants peace.

"What the opening of the Sioux reservation is to Dakota, the opening of the Chippewa reservations would be to this state." So says Commissioner Whiting in the very interesting statement published in yesterday's Herald. The success of the design of the commission would mean the breaking up of the baricade spots on the face of the state on which civilization has been warned not to trespass. It would open a future in which the Indian would no longer be treated as part leper, part lord and classed with idiots and paupers. It would enrich the nation with the products of redeemed lands and open fruitful fountains of industry and trade, from which streams will flow in every direction. To the head of the lakes the opened reservations would be of the first importance, for through Duluth would run the main channels of supply and distribution. Speed the day, says The Herald.

Traffic Manager Stubbs has changed his base. There is no doubt about that. He was on the Southern Pacific. He is now on the Milwaukee and St. Paul. This is the lone rock in the waste of speculation conjured up by The Chicago Tribune. So far there is no other lodgment for the foot of the combination-hatcher, but more than one is now dabbling in the waste with his other foot. The big balloon consolidation is losing its gas rapidly through the holes pricked in it but a new one has gone up after it in the form of the extension of the Milwaukee and St. Paul to Ogden to combine with the Central and Southern Pacific. This is designed to leave the Union Pacific out in the cold and to make its stock drop with a dull, sickening thud. But until this stock is struck with something more solid than windbags it will not stagger much. Oh, Mr. Stubbs, why did you change your base!

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie expects to spend $750,000 on his public library at Pittsburgh. Gustave Lindenthal of Pittsburgh, wants to build a bridge from New York to Jersey City.

A fine monument has been placed above the grave of the late Oliver Dixon, the music publisher.

Mrs. Zephania Wallace is lecturing in Louisiana on woman suffrage under the patronage of the W. C. T. U.

James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, is very ill with nervous prostration and will probably have to cancel his lecture dates.

Robert J. Burdette, the humorist, who has been acting as pastor of the Lower Merion Baptist church near Philadelphia, during the summer, has started on his lecturing tour.

A check for several thousand dollars, sent to Pope Leo XIII from Newark, N. J., has been regularly returned to the bank on which it was drawn, and will be preserved as a souvenir.

Mrs. Helen Campbell, well known for her articles, "The Prisoners of Poverty," published in The Tribune, will next month assume editorial charge of the department of "Woman's Work and Wages," in "Good Housekeeping."

POLITE JOHNNY.

[Mrs. George Archibald in Judge.] "Naughty boys," said Johnny's mother, "oft and oft I have said to you that I hope you'll remember careful manners are not right."

"That I will," said Johnny sweetly, and he kept his word completely, and said "please," and "thank you," and "excuse me," in a way that seldom failed.

And "please" and "excuse me"—oh, it really would confuse me to enumerate his phrases as they constantly occurred.

As a youth and as a man he still adhered to the plan he had so carefully adopted as his gentle rule of life.

And as his wife's domestic when it wasn't quite essential, as for instance to his servants and his children and his wife.

When his business up and bursted, and his creditors were worsted, with civility he told them he regretted such a sorry state of affairs, and he would be glad to pay them as soon as he could.

What I write is but a sample of the daily bright example which he set to show how life by proper manners may be gained.

Would that we might see another so much of Johnny, and his long deceased.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Boston ball team will winter in California. A national baseball league has been organized in England.

Joe Bowers wants to fight Choyanaki for "money, blood or fun."

Considerable money is already staked on the Reagan-Mitchell fight, with odds on Mitchell.

Ike Weir, the pugilist, will probably pass through Duluth on his way to California to fight Billy Murphy.

In the championship ball games of the California league the Oakland main-tain their lead, with San Francisco second.

Since 1881 the world's champion baseball winners have been the Providence, Chicago-St. Louis (tie), St. Louis, Detroit and New York clubs.

It is rumored that Walter Hewitt, president of the Washington baseball team, has determined to sell the club's franchise to the Brooklyn team, and that the senator's grounds will be sold next week at auction.

THE NEWS OF THE STATE

Close of a Large and Interesting State Convention of the Baptists.

Railroad Brakemen at St. Paul, and News Notes of Interest.

OWATONNA, Oct. 18.—Yesterday was the third and last day of the Minnesota Baptist state convention. The first order of business was the report of the treasurer of the state convention, D. D. Morrill, which showed that the expenditures during the past year had been $1054.32 more than the receipts. The committee on the next anniversary reported Minneapolis as the place for holding it. W. W. Dawley of St. Paul, was selected to preach the annual sermon at the Twin City. J. H. Brown of Duluth, alternate. The nominating committee reported as follows:

For President, Rev. J. C. Hobbs; Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Van Duzee, Westcott, Childs, Linn, Herrick, Palmer, Hecock, Smart, Augustus, Corresponding Secretary, E. H. Peters, Recording Secretary, Jason Hadden; Treasurer, D. D. Morrill.

John Day Smith spoke upon "The Church in the City." He was answered by E. M. Van Duzee who spoke upon "The Church in the Country."

In the afternoon Rev. W. Whitney and Mrs. J. Sunderland spoke upon "Home Mission Work," and Rev. H. E. Maine, D. D., and Mrs. S. F. Hance upon "Foreign Missions." There was an address, "The Relation of the Convention to Foreign Missions," by Rev. T. G. Field. Following this Boston W. Smith spoke upon "The Bible and Sunday School Work." Rev. E. T. Hecock spoke upon "Systematic Benevolence."

The evening closed the exercises of the convention. Short addresses were given by Rev. Rev. C. T. Hall and Rev. M. F. Negus. The convention has been the largest ever held outside of the Twin cities, and the meetings have all been interesting and instructive.

Of Great Interest to Delegates. ST. PAUL, Oct. 18.—This convention of the brakemen is considered by the delegates as the most important ever held. This is a year of radical changes and one of the first moves will be the reduction of the salaries of grand lodge officials about one-half. It is also said that Grand Master Wilkinson, who has held his present position since the order was founded, will be asked to resign. There is no fear to be felt that the administration, but he is believed to have held the place long enough. Morrisey of Galesburg, Ill., is mentioned as his successor. Grand Master Wilkinson, when asked concerning this feeling in the Brotherhood, said that it was entirely new to him. He says he has served the order faithfully and has no intention of resigning. Grand Secretary O'Shea also denied knowing anything about such a movement. The election of officers for the ensuing term is awakening an all-absorbing interest.

About the State. It has been decided that St. Paul will have an ice palace the coming winter. The Sherman fax Mill at Lake Lea has been given a trial run everything works satisfactorily.

A. J. Sawyer, formerly of Duluth, now of Minneapolis, has purchased the private elevator at Wadena.

A stranger, registering as E. Max Scope, committed suicide at Ellsworth by taking an overdose of laudanum.

The next meeting of the American Board of Commissioners of Foreign Missions will be held in Minneapolis in 1900. The 14-year old daughter of Mr. Berber, living eight miles north of Waverly, was buried to death. Her clothing took fire from a brush fire set by her father.

Sparkies from a threshing engine caused a fire near Red Wing, which destroyed a field of grain, sixty tons of hay, four valuable horses, farm tools and barn belonging to Louis Dow.

Wednesday morning the barn of Daniel McKinzie, at Northfield, containing thirty tons of hay and 150 bushels of grain, was totally destroyed by fire, caused by the explosion of a kerosene lantern. Loss about $1000; slight insurance.

Hon. George M. Seymour has returned to Stillwater from Venezuela, where he has been during the past two or three months in the interest of a syndicate of which ex-Senator D. M. Salin is largely interested.

Little Lumps of Wisdom

AND SOME MILD REFLECTIONS CONCERNING

INDUSTRY, ECONOMY AND THRIFT.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise."

—Proverbs.

Did you ever, think, dear reader, what a big, bustling world we live in. How every man seems to be bound, by the very law of his being, to work and toil and struggle to keep his head above water. We all know this by experience, and while it seems hard, yet as it is the common fate of mankind we are bound to do our level best and leave the results to God. But we, after all, are the architects of our own fortune. Some people fail in life because they are too lazy to work. Such people should learn a lesson from the industrious ant.

But there are millions of industrious people who work hard and long, people of good habits and the best of citizens, and yet they fail utterly to accumulate anything for a rainy day. And why is it? Please listen and we will tell you: The secret of acquiring wealth is to put money where it will make money—in other words, where it will grow. The rich men of this country never got their wealth by day labor. More than 80 per cent of them commenced life in that way, but by saving up their earnings and putting them into judicious investments their wealth grew and increased, like the farmer's crops, while they slept. Kind reader, you can become a landowner and capitalist if you only will. No such opportunities have ever been placed before any people as we present to you. We have what will soon become very popular and high-priced suburban property, which we are selling at ground-floor prices and on terms so easy that anyone who has any desire to acquire property can buy one or more lots, pay a very small sum down and make the deferred payments without feeling it.

If you want to embrace this great opportunity call and get a plat of Crosey Park and learn all about it. If you fail to do this, please reflect in after years that in the year of our Lord 1889 you had the ladder of fortune placed at your very feet and that you deliberately refused to climb. Think of these things, and come in at once and talk the matter over with us.

WHEAT IN CONSUMPTION

The Usual Sharp Demand For an J. Trading in Spot
Wheat.

Notes of Trade, Where Wheat Goes, Local Movement.

The small receipts at all leading primary points puzzle operators, for while a great deal of wheat is coming to Duluth and Minneapolis it is not what was expected, and shows no signs of holding out very long. Arrivals at primary markets since July are nearly up to the average of recent years, but arrivals at Eastern points are many millions of bushels below, and the visible is only 20,000,000 bu in round figures, against more than 32,000,000 bu last year, and 31,000,000 bu the year before that. The Daily Business of Chicago, talking on the question, Where has the wheat gone?

The trade is settling down to the conclusion that the wheat has gone into the hands of the granaries at the beginning of the current year was equivalent to a shortage of 50,000,000 bu; in other words, the country must absorb 50,000,000 bu before supplies can get to the starting point of ordinary years. Theorizing from that basis, it is not so difficult to account for the failure of wheat receipts to show up in the visible at this stage. Receipts here this morning were 143,572 bu, with 246 cars on track. The market behaved as it has done regularly of late, with a good demand for cash stuff and but little sale for futures, with the cash wheat market filled early and nothing doing after that. The indications now are that shipments, for the next ten days or more, will be liberal. In sympathy with a down turn, both at New York and Chicago, the market closed weak, and about 1/4 below the opening quotations.

Cash 1 hard opened at 83 1/2, was in good demand and all transactions were reported at that figure. No. 1 northern opened at 79, ruled active selling at 79 1/2, followed by further good business at 79. No. 2 northern opened with good trading at 76 1/2. No. 3 firm at 65. October 1 hard at 80 1/2, offerings small. It was in demand at 80 1/2, but closed weaker with 81 bid. No. 1 northern sold at 79 1/2, closed at 79. No. 2 northern 78 1/2. November dull at 82 1/2. December was held at 83 throughout most of the session, near the close sold at 82 1/2. May sales at 83 1/2, ruled dull, closed at 83 1/2 bid.

The Day's Movement.

TO TALK WITH INDIANS.

The Chippewa Commission Starts For Grand Portage Reservation.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the steamer Barker steamed from the Northern Pacific ship with Indian Commissioner Dr. J. B. Whiting and his corps of interpreters on board. They go to Grand Portage, the triangular reservation in the northeastern corner of Minnesota and 140 miles northwesterly from Duluth to treat with the Chippewas there on the taking of land in severalty.

"I expect to be gone from Duluth about two weeks," said Dr. Whiting. "By the end of that time I expect to have negotiations well under way. Of the 4,000,000 acres, pine and agricultural lands, the Indians, by taking their lands in severalty, can use but a small portion, throwing most of it open to settlement."

"I am very solicitous about the health of Governor Rice. His continued loss from the commission would be irreparable. No man in the West understands the Indian nature so well as he, and if he had been ill two months ago it would have delayed matters for months. After returning from Grand Portage I shall go to the small Tower reservations and to Nett Lake."

DULUTH'S RELIABLE AND LEADING CLOTHIERS,

MANUFACTURERS OF CLOTHING AT RETAIL.

WE MAY HAVE IMITATORS, BUT NO COMPETITORS.

FACTS! PROOFS! BEAT THEORIES! CLAIMS!

Ready-Made versus Tailor-Made.

Many people have been led to believe and told by other dealers that OUR TAILOR-MADE CLOTHING was nothing but ready-made clothing under a new name. To show the falsity of these statements by comparison in the workmanship, the shape, the fitting, etc., you now have the opportunity of seeing both side by side in our store. The difference is this: We can sell you good ready-made suits in all wool Cheviots, Corkscrews, Cassimeres, Tweeds, etc., at $10. You would be willing to pay $15 to $18 for, and probably pay ready-made stores such prices. Our tailor-made suits are sold for $15, $20, $22, $25, $28 and $30. Our prices on ready-made clothing show how much less we sell it to you than others. Our $15, $20 and $25 tailor-made suits and overcoats show how much less our price is than the merchant tailor's for the same goods. Why? Because we are the only clothiers in Duluth who manufacture and wholesale clothing, saving you one profit. Being the heaviest buyers of furnishing goods, underwear, gloves and mittens in Duluth, we buy goods at prices and quantities that little fellows can't touch.

FORTUNE OF A HALF-BREED GIRL.

Her Claim to Land in the Center of the City of Victoria, B. C.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 18.—A big real estate boom is developing in this city. Many years ago, back in the early fifties, when the gold excitement was attracting thousands to this province, amongst others came Douglas McTavish, to seek his fortune. McTavish, instead of hurrying as others did to Cariboo and the Fraser river gold fields, where so many millions were made and lost, staid down at Victoria, which at that time was merely a Hudson Bay company trading post. McTavish commenced buying real estate, at that time to be had for comparatively a trifle. This property was in what is now the heart of Victoria. McTavish became an owner of a dusky Indian beauty, whom he married. His wife died soon afterwards, leaving an infant daughter. McTavish soon followed his wife to the happy hunting grounds, and the little girl was left to the care of strangers. She grew up to womanhood, married and has been living here ever since, totally unconscious that her father had left anything to her. A short time ago a man who had been a friend of McTavish in the old gold days and who knew McTavish had owned considerable property, began to look the matter up. He interested an energetic young barrister in the case, and the search began. McTavish's will was discovered in an old rusty box in the Catholic bishop's house, where it had lain for years. The will bequeathed to his infant daughter the land in the center of the city, valued at nearly $500,000. The records upon search being made, plainly show that the young woman is the rightful owner of this large property. It is said that the Hudson Bay company, apparently losing sight of the fact that the girl was the owner of the land, had been selling it again, and now some of the finest business edifices in the city are erected upon property to which the owners have no title.

A long and bitterly contested lawsuit will certainly be the result. The young lawyer who takes up the case has been promised a small fortune if he wins in the event of his success. Writ will be served in a few days.

M'DOUGALL BARGES.

They are to be used for Atlantic Coast.

A Duluth correspondent of The Chicago Tribune has been talking with Capt. Alexander McDougall about the use of his whale-back barges in the Atlantic coastwise trade, and states, apparently on authority, that two barges are to be built for the coasting trade between Boston, New York and other north Atlantic ports, and Maryland and Virginia, and will probably be used in the coal trade.

A NECKTIE PARTY.

Henry Sampson May be Invited to One This Afternoon.

SHREVEPORT, Mich., Oct. 19.—(Special.)—Henry Sampson, charged with outraging 7-year-old Antony Brachetti, at Norway, was taken from Norway to Iron Mountain for safe keeping yesterday evening. The Italians, countrymen of the girl, joined by many representatives of other nationalities, made greedy preparations to lynch him, and he was taken to the county jail at Menomonee Lake last night, just in time to escape death from the raging mob.

At 10 o'clock this morning the girl is expected to die. Before night there may yet be a necktie party to which Sampson will be invited.

ELECTED A NEGRO.

Fair Harvard's Senior Class Elects a Negro for Class Orator.

BOSTON, Oct. 19.—The senior class at Harvard college has elected Clement Garrett Morgan, a colored man, as class orator. The election was hotly contested, but Morgan received a substantial majority, about 270 men voting. He entered college with little means, and during his freshman year worked in a bar. The Harvard prize he carried his audience by storm and won first place.

A meeting of barbed wire manufacturers is said to have been in session in this city for several days. It was the purpose of this meeting to form this trust.

A DEAD QUEEN'S HEART.

Strange and Remarkable Pageant Recalling the Middle Ages.

How the Queen's Heart was Borne to Our Lady's Chapel.

A strange and remarkable pageant, recalling vividly to mind the customs of the Middle Ages, took place at Munich recently, says a New York Tribune correspondent. At the time of the death of the Queen Mother, which occurred some three months ago, her heart, in accordance with the traditional usage of the royal house of Bavaria, was removed from the body, previous to the embalming of the latter, and was placed in a magnificent silver-gilt urn, specially made for the purpose, and filled with spirits of wine.

Early on Saturday last the urn was conveyed with much pomp and ceremony to Alt-Otting, a lovely spot about half an hour's ride by rail from here, where it was placed in the ancient chapel of our Lady of Mercies. This sacred edifice, which is famed for possessing a picture of the Holy Virgin brought from the Orient in the seventh century, and asserted to be endowed with miraculous properties, occupies one side of the small market-place of the picturesque little town. In the niches of its chancel wall are placed the urns containing the hearts of all the kings, queens, dukes, duchesses, princesses of the house of Bavaria since the foundation of the Wittelsbach dynasty, long centuries ago.

As soon as the procession started from the All Saints church, as the court chapel here at Munich is called, the bells of the cathedral and of all the other churches of the city began to toll, flags were lowered to half-mast and minute guns were fired. The military governor of the capital himself was in command of the immense escort, and the urn, draped with crape, was borne by the venerable dean of the court chapel, who was seated in a splendid state coach drawn by six milk-white horses. All the gorgeous gilt carriages and ornaments of the carriage as well as the lighted lanterns thereof, were shrouded with emblems of mourning, while the horses were almost hidden from view by heavy black velvet and silver trappings. The grand officers of the royal household and the cabinet ministers who took part in the procession were arrayed in full court dress, gold embroideries and sword-hilts being covered with crape. On arrival at the Western railroad station the urn was borne to the special train, which stood in readiness, all the troops presenting arms and the officials bearing their heads as it passed up the platform to the royal carriage.

Punctually at 9 o'clock the special train steamed into the station of Neu-Otting. A procession was at once formed, court carriages, together with a regiment of cavalry and two battalions of infantry for service as escort, having been sent on from the capital a few hours earlier. As at Munich, the dean bearing the queen's heart, rode in a state carriage and six, which proceeded at a footpace till the parish church, an edifice of great antiquity and much architectural beauty, was reached.

On alighting the dean was received by the bishop of the diocese, the abbot of the monastery of the Lady chapel, and the clergy of the parish. After having incensed the urn, the bishop, and the attendant priests marched, while the organ was pealing forth the moving strains of Chopin's funeral anthem, up the aisle to the high altar, the dean following with the heart under a purple and gold baldachin, borne by the leading citizens of Alt-Otting, who have possessed the privilege of performing that duty from time immemorial. On reaching the altar the urn was placed on the "castrum doloris," and the grand officers of the royal household, with Gen. Count Pappenheim and Count Durckheim-Montmorin at their head, took up their places in a semi-circle around the catafalque. At the foot of the latter, which was almost hidden by wreaths of fragrant flowers, were tabourets, on the purple velvet cushions of which were placed the dead Queen's crown, her orders, and the various emblems of the royalty which had been here in life. Standing beside the "castrum doloris," the dean delivered over the urn to the bishop with the following touching words:

"My Lord Bishop: We are commissioned by his royal highness, the Prince Regent, to deliver into your safe-keeping the heart of her late majesty, Queen Marie of Bavaria, in order that in accordance with the traditions of the sovereign house of Bavaria it may find its last resting place before the high altar in the chapel of our lady of Alt-Otting, beside the hearts of her husband, King Maximilian II, and of her son, King Louis II. Your lordship knew this heart when it was still alive and were acquainted with the sufferings and sorrows which it was called upon to undergo. But your lordship can also bear witness to the patience with which it endured all its trials, to the deep piety and faith which so distinguished it, and, above all, to the great love which it bore for the Bavarian country and people. It has been a noble and pious heart--this heart of our never-to-be-forgotten Queen Marie. The rest which was denied to this heart in life it will find in the holy chapel of Our Lady here, and may in the other world that sorely-tried heart be granted, through the grace of the Mother of Mercies, the everlasting peace of God."

A requiem was then sung, and the urn sprinkled with holy water and solemnly blessed by the bishop, after which the heart was borne once more in procession through the streets and across the market place to the chapel of Our Lady, where it was placed by the abbot in the niche which had been prepared for it.

Who Nimrod Was.

Nimrod, according to the Scriptures, was a mighty hunter, contemporaneous with Babylonian celebrities. His exploits are not given in detail, but they must have been wonderful. Mighty hunters of local fame in Minnesota at present should take a trip over the Saint Paul and Duluth railroad in search of sport. The vicinity of Moose, White Bear, Chicago and Forest Lakes furnishes small game, and in the vicinity of Hinckley and Northern Pacific Junction heavier game may be found. This promises to be a good hunting season. For these points take the Duluth Short line, the quickest route between St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and West Superior, with close connections beyond. POLONIUS AND HIS LOST CHANGE.

"Polonius was a splendid bit of character work." "Yes, but he had his drawbacks. When he started off and said, 'Neither a borrower nor a lender be,' he lost the best chance in the world to show off his wisdom."

"How's that?"

"Why, he could have gone on and said, 'but if thou must do one or t'other, let it be borrowing. There's money in't.'"

AUTUMNAL PHILOSOPHY.

"It's better to have been a worm than never to have seen this life."

"Well, yes, I am," was the careful reply; "that is, when it's good music, Laury. Now, you take a good accordion and a fiddle and a pair of bones and a flute, and let 'em all play 'Old Nidoonus' all at the same time, and I tell you it's sweet!"

HE KEPT STATIONARY AT INTERVALS.

"Tourist (to keeper of general merchandise store--an old timer)--Howdy do, eh? Do you keep stationary booth?"

"Well, I generally keep stationary 'cept when I'm movin'."

"Is getting cold."

"Is now the dude who through the summer days did love old Banker's daughters and escort 'em."

"Most every where, doth wonder at their ways; For eke the girls don't know him, now 'tis autumn."

He asks himself, "Glad have I then changed? Am I less worthy of them now than then? Am I, whom they have driven most deranged, become less lovely than those city men?"

"Or is it that when dressed in autumn duds, Deprived of tennis garb and blazer bright, No more to them a sweet and welcome sight?"

"Or do they think, because I squandered such Great quantities of gold and silver, That now 'tis fall I can't indulge in much Marrons glacés, milk shakes, and Iceland moss?"

To which no answer comes but that "at last Jack Frost is here in richest, fullest feather; That now 'tis cold, and colder growing fast. We're having what is known as cutting weather."

WILLIAM WILKIE COLLINGS.

(William Winters.)

Often and often, when the day was dark, And, whether to remember or behold, Life was a burden, and my heart, grown old With sorrow, scarce was conscious did I mark How from thy distant place across the sea, Vibrant with hope and with emotion free, Thy voice of cheer rose like the morning lark— And that was comfort if not joy to me! For in the weakness of our human grief, The mind that does not break and will not bend

Thou'st endurance as the one true friend, The steadfast anchor and the sure relief. That was, thy word, and what thy precept taught, Thy life made regnant in one living thought.

Thy vision saw the halo of romance Round every common thing that men behold.

Thy lucid art could turn to precious gold— Like roseate notes that in the sunbeams dance— Whatever object met thy kindling glance; And in that mirror life was never cold. A gracious warmth suffused thy sparkling gaze.

And woman's passionate heart by thee was drawn With all the glorious colors of the dawn.

Against the background of this Pagan age— Her need of love, her sacrifice, her trance, Of patient pain, her weary pilgrimage! Thou know'st of grief that can be known, And didst portray all sorrows but thine own.

Where shall I turn, now that thy lips are dumb And night is on those eyes that loved me? What other voice, across thy dying knell, Shall the triumphant notes of power, will come?

Alas! my ravaged heart is still and numb With thinking of the blank that must replace thee.

Yet be it mine, amid these wastes of pain, Where all is broken and where many sink, To stay the foot of misery on the brink. Of dark despair, to bid blind sorrow cease, Teaching that human will breaks every chain.

When once endurance sets the spirit free; And, living thus by perfect faith, to think I am to others what thou wert to me!

Very Unbecoming.

Lovely tints in the wrong place are ref of their charm. A lemon-colored countenance—the peculiar endowment of our pig-tailed brethren who "bit the pipe"—is unbecoming. It suggests bile going astray, and the inference is correct. Pain beneath the ribs and shoulder blades, constipation, dyspepsia, turred tongue and sick headaches supplement this indication of the bilious. For liver complaint and its multifarious symptoms, Hoefer's Stomach Bitters is an infallible specific. It relaxes the bowels sufficiently, but without gripping of violence. To the secretion of bile it gives a due impulse, but banishes an excess of that saffron-colored principle from the blood. Sick headaches, sourness of the breath and fur upon the tongue disappear when it is used. It renews digestion, fortifies the system against malaria, counteracts a rheumatic tendency, and remedies infection of the kidneys.

PITTSBURG OF THE WEST

Partial Record of the Growth of the New Pittsburg of the Great West.

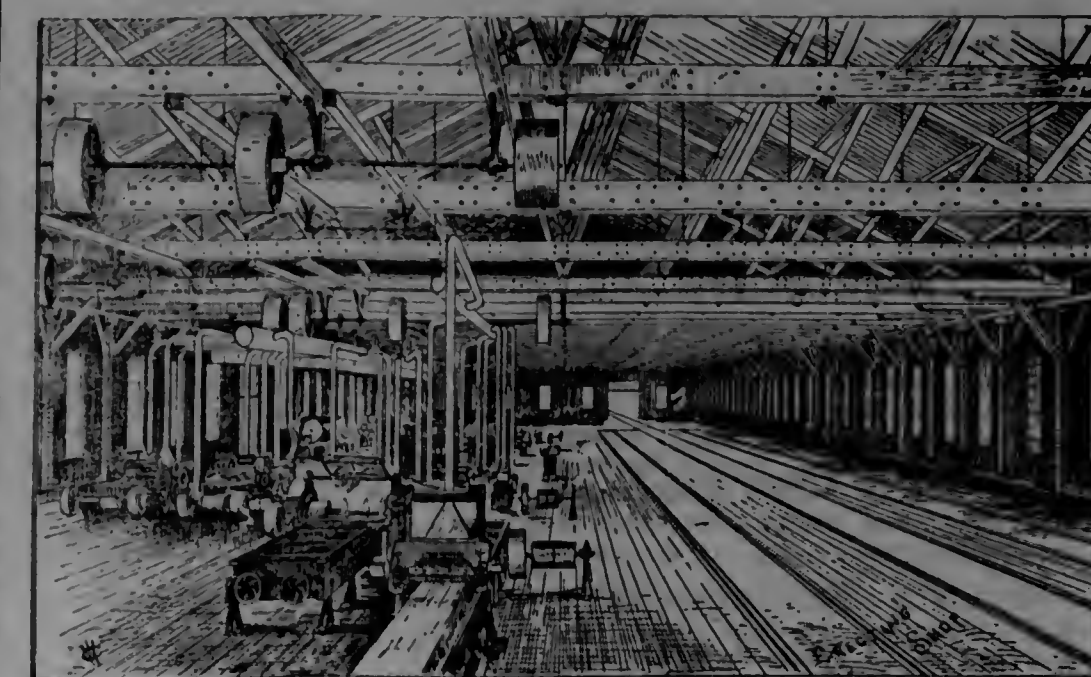

What Has Been Done at West Duluth Within a Twelvemonth.

THE REASON for the existence of West Duluth, as it is today and as it needs no prophecy to realize that it will be within a year from now, lies somewhat deeper than is generally realized by the resident who proudly relates that a little over a year ago there was but a log hut or two where now stand the magnificent factories, the business blocks and the hundreds and hundreds of houses which now make up the town of 3000 or more inhabitants. West Duluth is really an shops and the various other improvements necessary to handle the vast manufacturing traffic of a vast city will be built. No other place at the head of the Lake is so well furnished with natural advantages for railway yards, etc., for back from the bay stretches 20,000 acres of level land, splendidly adapted for this work. Fully one-third of Duluth's dock line is in the vicinity of West Duluth. As West Duluth will surely become the manufacturing center, so must all the manufactured product be handled for shipment to the West and North and South by the railroad lines, to the East by boat along the great lake. The first lines to enter West Duluth—in fact, the roads were there before West Duluth was thought of—are the St. Paul and Duluth and the Northern Pacific. However, the St. Paul and Duluth road is really the only line to own terminals in West Duluth, as the Northern Pacific for its level track work. Up the Bay View incline the cars are pulled by a cable 7300 feet long. At the Bay View terminal the cars are to be erected. Trains will be run to connect with Short line trains to Duluth and West Superior. An extensive terminal system with 100 miles of track, has been already contemplated for West Duluth, and a few years hence it will be a reality. But without a satisfactory dock system and a deep water channel from the harbor to the bay from the natural advantages of West Duluth would be of but little value. Of the $75,000 expended on harbor works for the past season $30,000 has been spent for the West Duluth. It is the intention of the government to ultimately dredge a channel 200 feet wide and 17 feet deep from the channel at Concord Point to Gray Point. At present there is a channel between these two points 14 feet deep and 40 feet wide, but next season its depth will be increased to 16 feet—sufficient to admit the passage of the largest lake vessels. Besides railroad short line transportation between West Duluth and this city next year a rapid transit will be established over the public streets of the city. As published in The Herald some time ago, the Duluth Street Railway company will extend its line from Twenty-eighth avenue west to West Duluth. Over this track will run the third electric railway ever put in operation in Minnesota. Active work on the line will begin next spring and cars will be running over the new route to West Duluth by August, 1890.

A rail line purely local is the Incline company's road. The company building this line was organized last December with a capital of completed and the cozy brick building which combines city hall, jail, engine house and council chamber on the corner of Sixth and Central avenues is well along toward completion. At the corner of Second street and Grand avenue a three-story brick hotel is to be erected at an early day and on the lots obtained yesterday from J. A. Hall on First avenue west the A. Getteman Brewing company of Milwaukee will begin on Monday to build a large cold storage warehouse. The paving of Grand and Central avenues and Second street, has no doubt, had a great deal to do with the wonderful growth displayed on these streets. At the present time Grand avenue is the banner improvement locality, outside of the manufacturing concerns, and here, where a year ago not a single building stood and where the street was a cattle path through brush and bramble, are no less than twenty-three buildings erected for business purposes, and several dwellings. The street has evolved from the rugged contour of nature into a broad well-graded, well-paved avenue, and sixteen-foot sidewalks are being built along the entire length.

At the western end of Grand avenue near the intersection of Second street the visitors will have their attention drawn toward the Sharp addition, which contains among its myriad of new dwellings the twenty-nine houses put up by the owner of the property. Each of these houses is intended for four families or practically 116 dwellings. The buildings have some striking architectural points, and were really the first large number of uniform dwellings built by a single owner.

Still further westward the neat and tasteful and exceedingly well-built Whitman cottages, the property of banks, hotels and other structures. In the "triangle" already alluded to, and formed by Grand and Central avenues and Second street, about thirty buildings have been erected during the year, many blocks which at the commencement of the year had not a single improved lot, now possessing a score or more of fine dwellings and places of business.

In the stretch of country between the

is pushing forward as fast as possible. It is experimenting with steel tubes to be used in place of malleable iron in the construction of its cars and it has purchased a very large quantity of scrap iron and old car wheels for making up into the various parts of the freight car and material, and men are constantly arriving.

The West Duluth Manufacturing company has had for some time in successful operation its large hardwood finishing factory and sash, door and blind works. The company has a capital of $100,000, is managed by practical and experienced men and has the best of machinery in its four-story factory. It began work late in the season to figure on any of the hardwood interior finish of the finer dwelling houses erected this year. It has, nevertheless, been able to do not a little of the best class of interior finish for stores and banks, and in every case has done its work satisfactorily, and at a less figure than the same work could have been done elsewhere and brought here. Among the best examples of the work of the West Duluth Manufacturing company are the interior fittings of Boyce & Tottman's new drug store, M. H. Alworth's abstract office, the office of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic, and banks at West Duluth and Two Harbors. It has also had very large contracts for sash, door and blind work.

The Iron Bay company, capital $300,000, has its large brick shop nearly completed and will soon begin moving in its machinery. The company will employ and other works will need a large amount of pig in their cupolas and smelters.

Spaces will forbid any mention of half a dozen smaller industries, the most successful of which are the brickyards, that were started more than a year ago. These yards are turning out a large quantity of good brick that find ready sale, and are proving the falsity of the statement that Duluth clay is all impregnated with lime. These brick for purposes others in their capacity to withstand pressure.

There are also several manufacturing industries that are expected to be located in West Duluth in a short time, negotiations being now under way. As this article deals only with facts and accomplished results, no mention will be made of them. Should these various industries be located successfully, the army of incident, but such an incident as assures for its continued and great growth, the realization of a future greatness more than commensurate with the fondest dreams of its most enthusiastic prophets. It had become impossible that the vast material resources of the great and rich Northwest, especially the iron region of Minnesota, should longer be kept from performing their mission in the world. So they took their place in the industrial world. West Duluth is one of the manifestations of the nature's processes. The iron from the Vermilion range could not go into the industrial world as it came from the mines. So West Duluth became an industrial necessity. It is as natural an incident in the development of the great Northwest as is the great lake which brings the world's tribute to Duluth.

West Duluth is one of those towns which spring up like magic, but which take such a grip that they never retrograde. The only magical attribute it has is that it proceeds to fulfill its destiny.

AN $800 COTTAGE.

tion more rapidly than the dull mind of man can travel. Shops, blocks and houses have gone up like magic, and the business of a bright and pushing town has naturally begun its work. But everything about West Duluth is as solid and real as can be shown by any of the old-time Eastern towns. There is not an ounce of shoddy in West Duluth. Its all wool and a yard wide. There is not enough of it to supply the market demand. That's all the trouble there is with it.

The brief history of West Duluth can scarcely be parallel. There have been towns built with more band music, and a greater display of fireworks; but so many "boom" towns have withered away and sunk out of public notice. There have been no fuss about West Duluth. All the energy that could possibly be enlisted has been hard at work making a

$1,000,000. Since April three miles of road has been built, with terminals in Bay View Heights and at the Iron Bay company's plant. The Incline company will use seven cars, with one locomotive for its level track work. Up the Bay View incline the cars are pulled by a cable 7300 feet long. At the Bay View terminal the cars are to be erected. Trains will be run to connect with Short line trains to Duluth and West Superior. An extensive terminal system with 100 miles of track, has been already contemplated for West Duluth, and a few years hence it will be a reality. But without a satisfactory dock system and a deep water channel from the harbor to the bay from the natural advantages of West Duluth would be of but little value. Of the $75,000 expended on harbor works for the past season $30,000 has been spent for the West Duluth. It is the intention of the government to ultimately dredge a channel 200 feet wide and 17 feet deep from the channel at Concord Point to Gray Point. At present there is a channel between these two points 14 feet deep and 40 feet wide, but next season its depth will be increased to 16 feet—sufficient to admit the passage of the largest lake vessels.

Besides railroad short line transportation between West Duluth and this city next year a rapid transit will be established over the public streets of the city. As published in The Herald some time ago, the Duluth Street Railway company will extend its line from Twenty-eighth avenue west to West Duluth. Over this track will run the third electric railway ever put in operation in Minnesota. Active work on the line will begin next spring and cars will be running over the new route to West Duluth by August, 1890.

THE BUILDINGS.

Something About the New Buildings—Their Number and Rapid Growth.

The rattling tattoo of builders' hammers and the hoarse rasping of a myriad of carpenters' saws are an inseparable accompaniment to the wonderful bustle and activity which pervades almost every thoroughfare in West Duluth. The rumble of wagons and other vehicles along the two miles of broad and well paved streets and the seven miles of graded highways begins at early morn and continues all day far into the evening hours. To this may well be added the clamor caused by the arrival and departure of over one hundred trains daily, the curling smoke wreaths of nearly a score of manufactories, and our readers have the outlines (which are being Senator A. J. Whitman, were all engaged before they were built.

Along the line of the Duluth Incline railway the frames of a number of new houses are up and roofed, and at the curious octagonal depot of the Duluth Incline railway there is an immense amount of sash, doors, nails, lumber and other building materials awaiting shipment to Bay View Heights.

On the other side of the St. Paul and Duluth railroad tracks, and along Second street toward the Car works, is another evidence of rapid growth. Last year the buildings on and abutting upon this street numbered four (one of which was a barn), and those who essayed to drive over the platted street had to pursue a devious course between stumps and over inequalities of surface. Now the rapid progress has touched it, and behold a transformation! About twenty business houses (all occupied), a number of hotels, a church and a score of dwellings line its sides. The street is paved with cedar blocks, and only about 600 feet remain before the intersection of Grand avenue will be reached.

When the paving contracts which are now under way are completed they will form a "triangle" about two miles in length along the three sides and taking and better than all these, there is not a necessarily unemployed man in the place, as work for all is obtainable at fair wages. The growth of the place has been so much ahead of the railroad's calculations, that these means of transportation are lamentably behind the times and utterly insufficient, but the "powers that be" say that all these drawbacks will be overcome as soon as possible.

THE BONE AND SINOW.

Record of the Great Manufacturing Interests That Crowd West Duluth.

Much has been said of the manufacturing interests of West Duluth, but these interests are so vast and so important that not by many pages can their full import be given. There are established already at West Duluth works that when in full running order will employ not less than 1800 men, a large share of them skilled mechanics, this number alone meaning a population of not less than 8000 people.

Of all these industries the Minnesota Iron Car company is, of course, the most important, its ultimate plans calling for developments scarcely appreciated by any Duluthians; developments of which it is now necessary to state further than that they contemplate the construction at the West Duluth works of the company's entire iron and steel work of a railway, from fish plates and rails to freight cars and locomotives.

The Iron Car company is already working several hundred men in its various departments, preparing for full work in all lines, and consumed at home, as pig iron, not counting the consumption when the Steel company has its Bessemer converters and rolling mills at work. The Minnesota Iron Car company will consume not less than 200 tons a day in the manufacture of cars, and the Iron Bay 250 to 300 men in engine and boiler making and similar work, and has contracts already on hand that insure profitable business. The company has been in business at Marquette under the name "Iron Bay Manufacturing company" for a number of years and has met with great success. It has made a specialty of making mining engines, hoisting drums and other mine machinery, and has several special devices. It also makes boilers on a large scale, sixteen of its boilers now being in the Iron and Steel works, and does a general foundry business. The company has a contract with the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic for all casting work required by the road, and this alone will give the company a large amount of work.

The company has moved to Duluth for several reasons. The chief cause of there being such a company at Marquette, its central position with regard to the iron district of Lake Superior, has of late years been eliminated by the construction of a Duluth railway system and the opening of great mines on the Vermilion range. Such a concern as the Iron Bay works, its managers saw, could do a much more profitable business if located in the center of a railway system reaching the Vermilion and Mesabi districts on the north, the Gogebic, Marquette and Menominee on the east and the copper and silver ranges of the Keweenaw peninsula and the rich districts of Montana east and west, and where there was opportunity to do shipbuilding and like work. It therefore secured an increase of capital of $100,000 to care for the expected additional business to be had here and moved at once. The superior geographical and commercial advantages of this city proved too strong an inducement to be withstood. The company has a number of special devices and patents on machinery, both for mines and mills, and its large business is assured.

At the great plant of the Duluth Iron and Steel company, where the largest blast furnace west of Chicago is being erected, all is bustle, but confusion is here also rapidly giving way to completeness and the massive works present an imposing appearance not often seen in new manufacturing establishments. The steel shell of the furnace, nearly eighty feet high, is far out-reached by the tops of the three hot blast stoves, where rapidly driven currents of cold air are heated to an intensity almost beyond belief, while these in their turn are but pigmies beside the towering draught stack of the works. The great engine, pictured on this page, the largest and most powerful in Minnesota, weighing 100 tons and forcing a million cubic feet of air per workingmen who call West Duluth their home would be increased by fully 800.

WILL NEVER MARRY.

Change Her State.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 19.—Any doubts that may have existed on the question as to whether Susan B. Anthony, the eloquent though venerable champion of woman suffrage, would ever enter the matrimonial state were set at rest in a private conversation with some friends in this city while participating in the state suffrage convention last week.

The extent to which the ranks of the public and platform advocates of the rights of the weaker sex had been weakened by marriage was being discussed, and this led Miss Anthony to remark that there had been great many changes since forty years ago, when she first entered regularly into the work of forwarding the movement for the recognition of women. She added that she believed that she was the only one of the pioneers in the movement that had remained unmarried, and that she was now nearly 71 years of age, she did not think that there was any probability that she would ever change her state.

William Williams Is Charged With Using the Mails for Fraudulent Purposes.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—United States Commissioner Hynes is engaged today in hearing the case of William Williams, the West Side pawnbroker, who is charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

hour into the furnace, stands completed in the engine house. Beside it is space for a time, as it is the company's intention to double its plant as soon as possible and make its output of pig iron over 300 tons per day.

Even such an output will be nearly all consumed at home, as pig iron, not counting the consumption when the Steel company has its Bessemer converters and rolling mills at work. The Minnesota Iron Car company will consume not less than 200 tons a day in the manufacture of cars, and the Iron Bay

FOR AMERICAN SHIPS.

One of the main questions to come before the next congress will be the encouragement of American ship-building and the establishment of American mail lines. Owing to the higher rate of wages the cost of building is somewhat greater than in foreign yards, but the difference is not as material as is often supposed, and can perhaps be offset by superior efficiency of method here. A member of the firm of William Cramp & Sons, the builders of the Vesuvius and Baltimore, has testified before a senate committee that "if you were to compel an Englishman to build an American ship he would charge as much as we do," and in explanation said: "The materials of the American ship average better throughout. The workmanship is better. The outfit is more complete. The accommodations for people on board, crew as well as passengers, are far superior. So that, on the whole, an American-built ship is worth more money than an English-built vessel of the same type."

To show in a practical way what can be done here in fair competition, the offer was made by this issue to the Cunard company to duplicate the service at the same price, and to guarantee to beat her time across the ocean. The offer is still open, and the firm will undertake, at any time, to duplicate the higher classes of English work at English prices. Now the service receives a subsidy of $85,000 annually from the British government, which counts it sound policy to push the extension of English tonnage on the ocean by direct and liberal inducements. If we think fit to compete with England we must follow her policy in order to make competition possible. Not only for mail service, but with the view of providing a naval reserve in time of war, when transports are in great demand, subsidies are now granted by England and other foreign governments, and the expediency of such allowances was explicitly recognized by the late secretary of the navy, though such a proposal under a republican administration is likely to be denounced as a robbery of the treasury.

When this proposal is made, therefore, as it is likely to be during the next session, it will be instructive to recall the words of Mr. Whitney. In asking the "earnest consideration" of congress for the question of establishing a naval reserve, he says: "Several European governments make an annual contribution, based on tonnage, to companies constructing new vessels. The consideration to the government is a counter-agreement permitting the government to take such a vessel for a transport in time of war upon terms named in the agreement. The government officials are also consulted as to her mode of construction, and she goes on to the naval reserve list. These payments are incidentally in the nature of a subsidy to the shipowner, and this, with the liberal payments for government transportation of the mails, etc., keeps a large fleet of merchantmen afloat as a reserve ready for a time of war. Without ships and trained seamen there can be no naval reserve."

At the close of his term of service Secretary Whitney had found out a number of things, which he did not know at the beginning, among other the superior efficiency of the Dolphin, the vessel whose condemnation by his examining board drove John Roach into bankruptcy. He became less credulous of slanders against American ship-builders and convinced of the policy of encouraging instead of discouraging them. With the rebate upon imported material used in ship construction here, competition is feasible as the Cramps and other leading ship-builders declare, in spite of the higher wages, but there is no incitement to build, in view of the comparatively niggardly policy of our government in stinting allowances for ocean mail service and ignoring the grants made in various ways by foreign nations to increase their tonnage. Unless we are prepared to put our American shippers on a corresponding footing, it is idle to look for their entrance on the sea of competition.

The local labor organizations in Boston have taken up the cause of the working girl, and are to begin a crusade against the contractors who manufacture ready-made clothing. It is asserted that these pay their female operatives, of whom they frequently employ a large number, not much more on an average than $2 a week, that the conditions under which they work are exceedingly detrimental to health, and that the work of ten hours a day on foot-power sewing machines is so trying as to speedily undermine the physical constitution of the operatives. There are believed to be 5000 girls in the city of Boston who work on ready-made clothing, and when notice is given that a contractor desires more help he has many more applicants for positions than he can possibly employ. How the crusade is to be conducted does not yet appear, and however laudable the purpose, it is not clear how any material advance in wages can be secured while the market is overstocked with would-be workers. It is certainly one of the most curious displays of false pride in our day that chooses the workshop, with its wretchedly meagre pay, arduous work and long hours in preference to domestic service, with pleasant lodging, good food and certain savings. When the two lines of work are rightly balanced, there will be less crowding of workshops and better pay to operatives.

The Herald yesterday printed a somewhat somber article regarding the destination brought upon certain sections of Dakota because of the continued poor crops. What is alleged in that article is probably only an outline of the truth, and it could easily be verified by realistic tales from various localities other than those mentioned. That such a condition exists has been known in this city for some time. Visitors to Dakota have returned with dolorous reports, and letters have told the same tale. The Sioux Falls Press of yesterday calls for aid for the farmers of Miner county, and urges that all the necessary help be furnished by Dakotans. The churches and Y. M. C. A. have actively taken hold of the matter. It is certainly to be hoped that more careful surveys of the field, and fuller information, will show that there is not likely to be wide-spread distress in these new states, but should there prove to be need of help there should be no hesitation on the part of this rich and prosperous city in doing its full share—and there will not be.

Our Mayors, When They Were Elected and When They Ruled Over Us.

Their Portraits Will Adorn the Walls of the City Council Chamber.

In the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy, the village of Duluth, state of Minnesota, became a city. It is now a city. Since April 12 of the year 1870, up to this day of 1898, a long line of distinguished gentlemen have upheld the dignity of Duluth, not the less sedate because the town was for the ten years from 1877 to 1887 a village, made so by its indebtedness.

At the Duluth school house upon April 12, 1870, the first city council, consisting of Messrs. R. S. Munger, Sidney Luce, William Nettleton, Edgar Nash, C. Emanuel Sweet, David Hanson, J. D. Ray and Nicholas Decker, convened, W. Van Brunt being city clerk. Col. J. B. Culver, the first city mayor, upon that occasion delivered a message, in which was set forth the great and glorious future of the then bustling city, soon to be set back ten years in the march of progress by the failure of Jay Cooke.

Mr. Clinton Markell was the second citizen of Duluth to possess mayoralty honors. He was elected without opposition.

In 1872 there were three candidates for the office, and after a sharp fight Mr. Sidney Luce, now of Ohio, was elected. Wm. Nettleton and P. Johnson being the defeated aspirants.

The next year, Dr. Vespasian Smith was the sole candidate. He made such an excellent mayor that in 1874 he was again elected.

Messrs. Peter Dean and George Spencer were the nominees for the office of mayor in 1875. Mr. Dean being elected, serving until the centennial year, when John Drew was elected without opposition. It was during the Drew administration that Allenman Tveelson (later sheriff of St. Louis county) presented a resolution to the city council, giving the United States title to the Minnesota Point canal.

But during 1876 and the few years preceding the city had become financially embarrassed, and March 14, 1877, the city of Duluth became a village. So poor was the town that the council fought a measure to raise City Clerk's salary from $10 to $15 a month.

Mr. A. M. Miller was the first village president, he serving until January, 1879, when, upon the eighth day of the month, Mr. John Drew again became the leading official of the municipality.

Following President Drew came Mr. Peter Dean, the second time elected to the most important municipal office. In April he resigned, Mr. J. D. Howard (state senator) and afterwards Mr. N. J. Miller acting in his place. Sept. 21 a special election put Mr. J. D. Esig as the presidential candidate to serve until January, 1881. April 5, 1881, under a special charter granted during the winter by the legislature, Mr. Esig was elected mayor. He continued in service until Aug. 29, 1881, when Mr. C. H. Graves (afterwards senator) was elected mayor. The year following Mr. Graves was re-elected, Mr. H. C. Kendall being the opposing candidate.

April 9, 1883, Mr. J. B. Culver took the oath of office as mayor. Mr. H. W. Pierson and Thomas Dowse running against him. Mr. Culver's sad death occurred in July of the same year. By the re-election of the city council, Mr. Matt Carroll, president of the council, acted as mayor, until Mr. C. H. Graves received two-thirds election to the office. This was July 28, '85.

April 2, 1884, Mr. J. D. Esig was again called upon to assume the duties of mayor, his opponent being the present incumbent, John J. B. Sutphin. This election was a memorable one in the annals of the city's history. Even today the voters of that time say they never passed through such a "red hot" campaign.

Upon the eighth day of April, 1885, Messrs. H. B. Moore and H. A. Moore were elected. Mr. H. B. Moore was elected.

In 1886 Mr. J. B. Sutphin was again before the people as a candidate, this time being elected over Mr. J. H. Upham. Mr. Sutphin was re-elected in 1887, being the first mayor under the re-incorporation of Duluth as a city.

The campaign of 1888 still holds itself as one of the most exciting and most bitter contests ever fought in this city. Mr. J. B. Sutphin was again elected, Mr. John McKinley being his competitor.

Within a year from today the portraits of all the mayors Duluth has ever had will look down from the walls of the council chamber, for the present council has authorized the purchase of all the pictures of mayors, at a cost not to exceed $75 each. This action on the part of the council but does honor to the man who has presided so worthily over the affairs of city, of village, then city again, until today, from being the chief officer over 200 people, the mayor of this city, J. B. Sutphin upholds the dignity of 50,000 citizens of the great municipality of Duluth.

A PROPOSED DEMONSTRATION.

The Annual Celebration of the Execution of the "Manchester Martyrs."

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The announced intention of the Cronin faction of the Irish element to hold the usual annual celebration of the execution of the "Manchester martyrs" is creating a good deal of adverse comment, in view of the trial now in progress in the criminal court, and it is currently reported that the lessee of Central music hall has been asked not to rent that place for the affair, and that in consequence application will be made to the city authorities for the use of Battery D, on the lake front.

The "Manchester martyrs," it will be remembered, were Allen, Larking and O'Brien, who were executed at that city for the wilful murder of Police Sergeant

Brett, who was escorting an alleged dynamiter from the police court to the city jail. It is strongly urged that the proposed demonstration is in extremely bad taste, in view of the fact that in this city and at this time five men are on trial for murder growing out of Irish political affairs.

It is not probable, however, that the public sentiment in relation to the matter will result in the abandonment of the demonstration, especially in view of the fact which is now recalled that a similar demonstration was held two years ago, when Spies and his comrades, whose victims also were police officers, were within the shadow of the scaffold. At that time strong pressure was brought to bear against the demonstration, but without result.

HOW WILL THE INDIANS VOTE?

The Red Man as a Political Factor in the West.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—The Indian as a political factor is a feature of politics which is likely in the near future to attract public attention. By recent acts of congress every Indian over 21 years of age who receives an allotment of land in severalty becomes a voter. The successful termination of the negotiations with the Sioux Indians, by which they surrender a large part of their reservation in Dakota, will, it is estimated, by next year, throw into politics the uncertain quantity of 400,000 voters.

This vote, thrown solidly, as it probably will be, into both state and national elections, is likely to become an important factor in South Dakota. Negotiations now in progress with other Indian tribes will soon make many thousands more Indian voters.

At the interior department it is thought that upward of 20,000 Indians will be entitled to vote in the next presidential election. How the "red man" will conduct himself as a part and parcel of the nation, and not as its ward, are interested in the solution of the Indian problem.

AN EXPLODED SENSATION.

Ernest Weldon Found to Have Died from Natural Causes.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The promised sensation in what has been known as the "second Maybrick case" has been exploded, and when the inquest is resumed next week a verdict of death from natural causes will be returned. The case was that of Ernest Weldon, a millionaire sporting and club man, who died suddenly last month at his mansion in South Kensington under circumstances that pointed to poisoning. The body was very hurriedly interred, and the surrounding circumstances were so suspicious that the secretary of state for the home department issued an order for the exhumation of the body.

Although only 29 years of age the deceased was a prominent figure in the social world, and the rumors concerning his death, which occurred while the public mind was excited over the Maybrick case, created a great sensation. By his will he left a fortune of $350,000 to his widow, Violetta Weldon, who is a cousin of Baron de Ville. She is 30 years of age, and Weldon was her third husband.

POPULAR PEOPLE.

A monument has recently been unveiled at Epomei, France, in memory of Gambetta's escape from Paris in a balloon during the popular siege.

The King of Bavaria receives an income of $1,000,000 a year from the profits of the Hofbrauhaus brewery. Governor Hill has left Albany for Atlanta, Ga., where he is about to spend a week or so among his Southern friends.

An engagement of marriage is announced between Caroline Ullmar, the well known singer, and Gordon Kellogg of California.

The fund for the widow and children of Lineman Teeks, who was killed by an electric wire in New York last week, already reaches $1,061. It was collected at the base of the telegraph pole on which Teeks was killed.

Mr. Phelps, the new minister at Berlin, was presented to the Emperor by Count Kuntze after the performance at the opera house one night last week, at the Emperor's own request.

Royal Phelps Carroll, a son of ex-Governor John Lee Carroll of Baltimore, has sailed from New York for Africa, on a lion hunting expedition.

That Little Tickling.

In your throat, which makes you cough once in a while and keeps you constantly clearing your throat, arises from catarrh, or inflammation of the mucous membrane, the ordinary cough medicines all fail to hit the spot. What you need is a constitutional remedy like Hooch's Sarsaparilla. Many people who have taken this medicine for scrofula, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, and other troubles, have been surprised that it should cure such troublesome cough. But to know the actual cause of the cough is to solve the mystery. Many cases of consumption are the result of blood poisoning, building up the general health, and expelling the scrofulous taint which is the cause of catarrh and consumption, has restored to perfect health many persons on whom this dreaded disease seemed to have a firm hold.

Little Lumps of Wisdom

AND SOME MILD REFLECTIONS CONCERNING

INDUSTRY, ECONOMY AND THRIFT.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise."

—Proverbs.

Did you ever think, dear reader, what a big, bustling world we live in. How every man seems to be bound, by the very law of his being, to work and toil and struggle to keep his head above water. We all know this by experience, and while it seems hard, yet as it is the common fate of mankind we are bound to do our level best and leave the results to God. But we, after all, are the architects of our own fortune.

Some people fail in life because they are too lazy to work. Such people should learn a lesson from the industrious ant.

But there are millions of industrious people who work hard and long, people of good habits and the best of citizens, and yet they fail utterly to accumulate anything for a rainy day. And why is it? Please listen and we will tell you: The secret of acquiring wealth is to put money where it will make money—in other words, where it will grow. The rich men of this country never got their wealth by day labor. More than 80 per cent of them commenced life in that way, but by saving up their earnings and putting them into judicious investments their wealth grew and increased, like the farmer's crops while they slept. Kind reader, you can become a landowner and capitalist if you only will. No such opportunities have ever been placed before any people as we present to you. We have what will soon become very popular and high-priced suburban property, which we are selling at ground-floor prices and on terms so easy that anyone who has any desire to acquire property can buy one or more lots, pay a very small sum down and make the deferred payments without feeling it. If you want to embrace this great opportunity call and get a plat of Crosley Park and learn all about it. If you fail to do this, please reflect in after years that in the year of our Lord 1889 you had the ladder of fortune placed at your very feet and that you deliberately refused to climb. Think of these things, and come in at once and talk the matter over with us.

MODERN, ROOMY AND ARTISTIC.

NEW HOUSE is in many families the anxious subject of many evenings conversation and perhaps a few hints as to the best way to produce an artistic home would not come amiss.

The sketch shows a modern American house such as is at present in the best possible taste. In plan it is at once compact and roomy. With hall, parlor, library, diningroom and kitchen and dependencies on the first floor, we get five good chambers on the second and two or three very fair ones on the third, giving ample accommodation for a large family.

The exterior treatment is very simple, the entire house from ground to ridgepole being shingled. The stone foundations step two inches above the grade line and the shingling commences there, the basement windows having shingled arches over them. This treatment is carried up to the piazza balcony, care being taken to leave scupper holes for the escape of any water that may collect on the piazza.

In the second story the recessed balcony being entirely inside the general line of the house frame adds little to the cost, while contributing a very pleasant outdoor sittingroom for a hot day. This opens into the principal chamber by a casement window opening to the floor. This window is flanked by ordinary sliding windows on each side.

A tower affords an excellent opportunity for staircases, and by using one to accommodate the staircase in this instance we shall save valuable space.

From a roomy piazza we enter a long hall having at one end the entrance to the diningroom and at the other the winding lower staircase. On the right is the door to the parlor and opposite that to the library. The parlor and diningroom are both large and are intended for use by the family as a whole, while the library, small and cosy, is more for one or two reading, writing or studying.

The parlor, which will be the sitting and general congregating room of the family more than any other in a house of this kind, would of course require most thought in decorating and finishing, that it might not only be pleasant, but might also act as an educator to a certain extent to the younger members of the family. This room would be very pretty if papered with a greenish gray paper, rather light in tone, with wood work painted a lighter shade of the same general color. A panel wainscot about three feet high finishes the walls nicely and is not nearly so liable to injury by chair backs as is unprotected paper.

The diningroom painted a dull tan color with walls of tan and old gold and furnished in oak would be at once elegant and substantial. Oaks chairs with seats of leather are handsome and durable. A suggestion for a carved side board is given. This form would be found very convenient, giving as it does, cupboards, shelves and drawer. Well curved this would give an air of elegance to the whole room and make it possible to use a very simple style of table and chairs. The upper part contains a central cupboard with glass door and smaller cupboards on each side of the carved panels are the doors. The large drawer would serve admirably for table linen.

The library would be charmingly finished in cherry. Bookcases would take up the lower six feet of wall space and above that the plaster wall might be left rough and painted a dull red. A fire-place would make the room much cosier and a couple of easy chairs beside a library table, of generous dimensions, with reading lamps and writing materials would complete the picture.

Hardwood floors, preferably oak, would be best in this story, and if the staircase and second story hall floor could be oak also, the result would justify the additional expense.

Passing now to the second story we find at the head of the stairs the entrance to the principal chamber. This room might be furnished in yellow, green or perhaps come nearer the exact idea. Wall paper with an unobtrusive figure and a meeting covered with a thick carpet, heavy draperies or ungainly furniture.

On this floor a tiny sewing room might be arranged in the staircase way as the third story stairs do not go over the others. It should be a few steps above the main second story floor that proper headroom may be had on the stairs below.

Of course these are only hints and perhaps each member of the family has fully made up his or her mind as to the scheme of decoration to be followed in the new home. But it may be that here will be seen something that will decide a disputed point or settle some doubtful question.

Try the Model $3 Calf shoe and you will wear no other. They are neat and durable. Lace and Congress.

AMERICANS ABROAD.

How some Salacious Adventurers Bring Discredit Upon This Country.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—A case of criminal libel, in which both the plaintiff and defendant are Americans, has been in progress and has attracted a considerable amount of attention. The plaintiff is a Philadelphia, John Arthur Chandos by name, who came over here a few years ago with Mrs. Ralston, the widow of the president of the California bank, who committed suicide. Mr. Chandos had left his wife and children at Philadelphia. Col. Hughes Hallett introduced him into his own home, and also to Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, a wealthy and aged widow of Philadelphia who was at the time engaged in a quarrel with her son-in-law, Baron Von Billa, the Swedish envoy at Rome, over the guardianship and care of her daughter, who was mentally affected at the time. Mr. Chandos interested himself in the quarrel and promised to devote himself to the furtherance of Mrs. Bloomfield Moore's views in the matter. Shortly afterwards Mrs. Moore offered to adopt Chandos. Chandos has now brought a suit for criminal libel against his former patron, Mrs. Moore, for allowing letters defamatory to his character to leave her possession.

There is another suit against Col. Hughes Hallett for causing the letters in question to be published. Lord Montague is likewise mixed up in the case. Col. Hughes Hallett has not been in London for more than a year, and, if rumor is to be believed, will not return for a long time to come. Mrs. Hughes Hallett said on the witness stand yesterday that she did not believe the charges against Chandos.

A NEW ENGLAND TRAIT.

It is aptly illustrated in the following instance.

New York Express: The grasping, though not miserly—nature of the native New England farmer is somewhat proverbial. It is hard to get the better of him in a "dicker," and he very seldom gives anything for nothing. His keenness in this respect was well illustrated by an experience of a young Boston man

"Well, now, seein' yer want to hire a boat so bad—come ter think on it, it's gettin' kinder late, and I don't believe that other feller will be 'round this mornin'—it's nog 'o'clock. You want to hire it, yer say?"

"Yes. How much will you charge me for it for the day?"

"The last time I let her out I charged thirty cents for her, but I kinder think that's a little mite high. I guess I'll let you have it for twenty-five cents."

The boat was taken.

THE PHOTSCOPE.

A Machine Which Will Enable One to See Things at a Distance.

Not long ago Mr. Edison made public his intention to perfect a "far-sight" machine, i. e., an arrangement by which a person at a distance can be seen as plainly as his voice can be heard over the telephone. There have been other workers in the same field, says The Boston Journal of Commerce, and one of them, Herr Korzel of South Germany, has not only effected several important developments, but has actually brought down the invention to a working basis.

The foundation of the apparatus is the ordinary house telephone. Above the diaphragm aperture is a lens, similar to the objective of a photographic camera, and above this is a translucent glass plate in an elaborate frame. At the right and left of the objective are two incandescent lamps with silvered mirror reflectors. The lamps are lighted by a specially constructed battery. This constitutes the whole outward appearance of the apparatus. The objective serves for taking the picture of the person using the telephone, while the incandescent lamps illuminate his face. Upon the glass plate above is thrown the image of the person using a corresponding instrument at the other end of the line.

The action of the apparatus is based on the changing in the photoscope of light vibrations into electric vibrations in the same way as sound waves are changed in the microphone, and on the use of bromo gelatine, a substance which, in connection with the well-known property of selenium, makes possible the transmission of light. In the course of an exhibition of this system in Berlin Herr Korzel connected his photoscope to a telephone and had the central office connect him with a business friend in Potsdam, who likewise was provided with a photoscope. The moment the Potsdamer stepped to the apparatus the ground-glass plate showed an excellent portrait of him, which, when compared with his photograph, was easily identified. The shape of the head, the smile and the earnest expression of the whole face were perfectly distinct.

Mr. Chandos and to give him $10,000 a year for his services in taking care of her property if he would send to Philadelphia for his wife and children.

It appears from the testimony produced that at the time when Col. Hughes Hallett got into the difficulties which led to his expulsion from a country house and to his subsequent withdrawal from political life, his wife Mrs. Hughes Hallett, who was a Miss Emily Schomberg of Philadelphia, persuaded Mr. Chandos to visit Mrs. Bloomfield Moore, who was at Nice at the time, and to obtain a loan from her. Mr. Chandos obtained about $4500 for the Halletts, who seem to have been hard pressed at the time, and about $10,000 for himself from Mrs. Moore. No security was given for this loan and it has never been repaid. Soon after this Mrs. Bloomfield Moore received some letters accusing Mr. Chandos of being a swindler and making all kinds of other charges against him. These letters Mrs. Moore declared that she sent on to Mrs. Hughes Hallett because it was through the latter that she had become acquainted with
